FIERY SALINAS COLLISION

Two or three persons were believed killed near Salinas this morning when a gasoline tanker ignited after colliding with a car on Highway 101. Two hours after the flames had been extinguished with foam, the wreckage was still too hot for firemen to approach and remove the bodies. A witness said the car, carrying two or three persons, pulled onto the freeway and the truck ran over its top. The truck driver, unidentified this morning, escaped. Traffic on the highway was blocked for several hours by the crash and firefighting efforts. (UPI Telephoto)

More Rain Is Seen; Big Traffic Snarls

Over 10 Inches Claimed By Kentfield Resident

Heavy rain, in some cases near record amounts, fell yesterday as a storm drenched Marin and Southern Sonoma counties, creating massive traffic tieups.

The weatherman said there is a 60 per cent chance the rain would continue tomorrow.

In addition to traffic problems, there were numerous power outages due to the storm, and minor flooding and leaking roofs were reported in various areas.

Raymond J. Mullen, who maintains a rain gauge at his home at 21 Oak Knoll Road in Kentfield, reported 10.17 inches of rain fell there from the storm's start yesterday to 7 a.m. today. "It just came straight down," he said, noting he lives on the first ridge just below Mount Tamalpais, a heavy rainfall area.

A resident of Greenbrae recorded 8.1 inches of rain on his unofficial gauge.

Other rainfall figures from 8 a.m. yesterday to 8 a.m. today were:

Sausalito, 3.74 inches; Bolinas, 2.21; Belvedere, 4.65; Tamalpais Valley, 3.05; Mill Valley, 3.02; Tiburon, 4.33; Woodacre, 5.24; San Anselmo, 3.69; Corte Madera, 6.05; Larkspur, 6.90; Ross, 7.20; Novato, 2.14, and Petaluma, 1.89.

In San Rafael, 5.53 inches fell from noon yesterday to noon today.

Robert H. Williams, district electrical superintendent for the Pacific Gas and Electric Co., said that thousands of Marin customers were without power for varying lengths of time yesterday and last night.

Falling branches were blamed for all but one of the outages, which was caused by an equipment failure that affected some 4,000 customers in the Mill Valley and coastal areas of Marin.

Other outages affected Mill Valley, Fairfax and Ross residents. All power was restored by 9:45 p.m., Williams said.

In Petaluma, water damaged a telephone cable on South McDowell Boulevard and East Washington Street, disrupting phone service in the area. A phone company spokesman said repairs should be completed by 5 p.m. today.

Motorists on Highway 101 encountered numerous stalls from a rash of minor collisions yesterday, and today's early morning commuters found a slower than usual ride to San Francisco although no accident was reported.

Most of yesterday's collisions were due to autos skidding on rainslick highways, according to the California Highway Patrol. Officers advised motorists to beware of "hydroplaning" tires, a situation which occurs when vehicles traveling at high

San Rafael Stands Firm On Fire Response Policy

By NELS JOHNSON

The San Rafael City Council, reaffirming its new policy of refusing first call fire response outside city limits, last night rejected a plea for reconsideration by the Marin County Board of Supervisors. (Other San Rafael City Council stories, page 8.)

The council flatly declined to rescind its Nov. 1 ultimatum which prohibits city firemen from fighting fires in unincorporated areas until after the county fire department has arrived with a structural firefighting truck manned by at least two men.

The six-day-old policy is aimed primarily at Santa Venetia, where a lone county fireman mans a structural rig.

County supervisors last Tuesday asked the city to relent on the new procedure until residents in unincorporated areas vote on formation of a fire protection district, probably next June.

Councilmen praised the county's request that the Marin Local Agency Formation Commission explore creation of special service areas or a county structural fire protection district, but said the move came too late.

"The county didn't act until the 11th hour," declared Councilman Fred E. Jensen, noting that the county plea that San Rafael hold up its new fire fighting policy pending LAFC action came less than two days before the new policy began.

The two agencies have for months made fruitless efforts to resolve the mutual fire protection issue, with the city claiming the county has neither the equipment nor the manpower to provide appropriate fire call service to adjacent unincorporated areas.

The county has repeatedly balked at the city's requirement that county fire equipment and staffing be beefed up as a prerequisite to mutual fire aid, saying no fire agency in the county has ever made such a demand.

Councilmen last night, however, again urged the county to staff its Santa Venetia rig with at least two men.

Councilman Jack G. Nixon noted that inability of the county and the city to resolve the question might result in tragedy: "I have the specter hanging over my head that someone might burn to death."

"Oh, we wouldn't do that," replied colleague Fred E. Jensen in a barely audible aside.

Fire Chief Robert E. Marcucci said the city has received no first call fire requests from unincorporated areas since the plicy went into effect. Should such a call be received, residents will be told to call the county, and a back-up call to the county will be made by a city dispatcher, he said.

Probers To Seek Talk With Nixon

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Senate Watergate committee voted today to seek an informal meeting with President Nixon on the Watergate affair.

No advance conditions were set by the committee during a lengthy, closed session. Members decided to send committee lawyers to the White House to explore the possibility of an informal conference.

The proposal was a compromise to a plan by Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, R-Conn., a committee member, to seek a meeting with Nixon amid growing recommendations by members of the President's own party that he make full disclosure of any information he might have about the scandal.

Under Weicker's proposal, the President's responses to questions by committee members would be transcribed and made public later. The committee did not take a formal vote on the Weicker proposal and left up in the air whether the committee would ask for a transcript of the conversations.

There was no immediate indication from the White House on how Nixon might respond to the request for a meeting.

Some members of Congress have called for an appearance on Capitol Hill by the President, but White House officials made clear Nixon had no intention of doing so. They said there were no plans for a new public statement by the President about Watergate in any substative form.

In U.S. District Court, Chief Judge John J. Sirica today directed that Rose Mary Woods, Nixon's personal secretary, be summoned to testify about the Watergate tapes and why two of them seem to be missing.

Sirica directed that Miss Woods be called after it was disclosed in testimony by presidential assistant Stephen Bull that she had possession of the tapes for at least two weeks this fall and possibly may still have them.

In reply to almost daily questions by reporters about whether Nixon had given any consideration to resigning, White House aide Ronald L. Ziegler said: "The President is not a quitter. He never has been in his entire career."

One of Nixon's firmest congressional supporters, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., was asked on the NBC-TV Today Show if he saw any reasons for Nixon to resign. "None whatever," he replied. "He was elected by the people by a tremendous vote...The grassroots as I found them last weekend in

NOTHING IS LESS THAN ZERO

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Since advertising executive Richard Hunsley can't get what he wants on his personalized license plate, he would rather have nothing at all.

Hunsley asked for a zero but was told that the governor had "number one" on his vehicle and no plates could be issued with a smaller digit.

So Hunsley asked the department to issue him a blank license plate with only the registration sticker on it. He is still awaiting a reply.

Syria Says Israeli Jets Attack Heights

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Syria reported that two formations of Israeli planes attacked Syrian army advanced positions on the Golan Heights today with "many" air to ground Shrike-type missiles, but were driven off by Syrian fighter planes and air defense systems.

It was the first reported cease-fire violation on the Syrian front since the Oct. 22 cease-fire and coincided with Israeli reports of scattered fighting along the Suez Canal front where Israel said the Egyptian armed forces have been fully deployed for attack.

An Israeli spokesman in Tel Aviv said he had "no information" about the reported attack.

The United States is known to have armed the Israeli air force with Shrikes, underwing missiles that home on radar signals. U.S. pilots used them in the Indochina War in attacks on North Vietnamese surface-to-air missile sites.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger was in Morocco for talks with King Hassan II before flying on today to Tunis and Cairo in hopes of working out a peace settlement before the Middle East war can resume.

"We are still concentrating on the ground situation," a Kissinger aide said following two rounds of talks with Hassan. "It is getting a little better, but there is a potential for trouble if it is unresolved.

The "ground situation" involves the cease-fire lines. Egypt has said it will resume the war if Israel does not return to the Oct. 22 cease-fire lines. Israel, which has trapped the Egyptian 3rd Army, refuses to budge until there is a prisoner of war exchange and arrange-

Auto Industry Will Get Converter Nod

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Russell Train, administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, said today he has decided to tell the automobile industry to go ahead with installing the catalytic converter on 1975 model cars.

Even though he said the exhaust control device may emit a pollution which itself could be a "significant health problem," Train said that "to hold it up a year would mean throwing off the entire momentum of the present auto emissions control strategy."

The problem with the catalytic converter is that it emits sulfates, particles which when in the air can cause lung and heart problems. The converters are meant to control carbon monoxide and hydrocarbon in exhaust. The sulfates pollution results from sulfur levels in the gasoline.

Speaking with reporters prior to an appearance before the Senate Public Works Committee, Train said one model year

Marin, Southern Sonoma Vote Turnout Said Light In Morning

Polling places in Marin and Southern Sonoma counties reported business was slow this morning. The polls will remain open until 8 p.m.

Voters are picking directors or trustees in 14 special districts and three school districts, and balloting on a variety of bond issues for water supply, flood control, open space, a police building, and fire protection tax rates.

The local contests are joined on the ballot by a statewide issue, Proposition 1, Gov. Ronald Reagan's plan for reform of property taxes.

In Southern Marin by midmorning the voter turnout ranged from a high of 17 per cent at an Alto precinct to a low of 5 per cent in Marin City.

In the precinct at 6 Azalea Drive, Alto, 62 of 357 eligible voters had cast ballots. At the Village Baptist Church in Marin City, only 20 of 384 had voted.

In Novato, where the stormy weather was expected to have spurred special interest in the flood control bond on the ballot, turnout was less than 15 per cent by midmorning.

San Rafael voters were busier; the city hall precinct had a 21 per cent turnout by 11 a.m. with 107 voting of the 520 eligible. The turnout was about 10 per cent at the Deer Park School in Fairfax.

Larkspur and Corte Madera precincts reported turnouts ranging from 10 to 15 per cent.

Israel Puts War Losses At 1,854

TEL AVIV (UPI) —Israel said today 1,854 of its soldiers were killed in the October Middle East war and about 1,800 others were wounded and hospitalized.

The 1973 conflict was Israel's costliest conflict in terms of human life except for the 1948 war when about 4,500 Israeli soldiers died. A total of 803 persons was killed in the 1967 Six Day War.

New Weather Probe Fired

VANDENBERG AFB, Calif. (UPI) —An advanced weather satellite was launched today to replace another storm watcher which failed to go into orbit last July when its rocket went out of control.

A spokesman for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said "everything appeared normal" after the new spacecraft was launched on schedule at 9:02 a.m. PST.

The satellite, NOAA3, was designed to take over primary weather watching duties handled for the past year by NOAA2 which was to operate for six months but was still going strong.

NIXON TALK ON ENERGY CRISIS DUE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said today President Nixon may address the nation as early as tomorrow on what it called the "very acute" prospect of fuel shortages.

The President scheduled a session with Democratic and Republican congressional leaders tomorrow on the energy situation and presidential spokesman Gerald L. Warren said Nixon "will be speaking out on this matter this week."

He said this "could take the form of a presidential address to the nation."

THE PATIENT'S PLIGHT

Fewer Visits In Nursing Homes

By JEFF GREER
(Second of two articles)

Edward T. Ryken, executive director of the Marin Senior Coordinating Council, agreed that many elderly patients are swamped by medical costs their Medicare or other insurance doesn't cover when they must move out of general hospitals into a convalescent hospital.

And there's a human welfare problem that's ignored too often, he added. "Patients in the general hospitals get plenty of visitors, but the convalescent hospital seems to be regarded as "a place where you go to die'," Ryken said.

He said his office found that a patient seeing family or friends several times a week in a general hospital often received visits only monthly after moving to a long-term care facility. The result can be "deterioration" even though the convalescent hospital provides completely adequate medical services, he said.

Many of the elderly "are just priced out of it," when it comes to choosing between spending their savings and selling their homes to pay for longtime care, or keeping the patient home, usually cared for only by an equally elderly mate, Ryken said.

Two elderly persons discussing their staggering medical costs with this reporter begged not to be identified, because they couldn't bear to have friends or neighbors know they face going on welfare when their own savings run out.

Another voiced fear that his creditors would descend on his helpless wife; several patients or their spouses said they didn't want to become burdensome to their adult sons and daughters, who were unaware of the problems because they thought the parents were covered by health insurance.

"Somehow, nobody seems to connect the three-sided pieces of the problem" — the patient, the insurance and the hospital — Ryken said. "We've taken it up to the Comprehensive Health Planning Council" of Marin County.

Council members said studies have begun, but any reports probably are months away.

The county's Department of Health and Human Services wrestles the problems of lingering illness hundreds of times each year, according to two of the department staff, Alixe Henry and Helen Callbeck.

They reported that 350 to 450 patients are receiving Medi-Cal financing for convalescent hospital care, "but they have to be destitute" to qualify for the aid.

A single patient is ineligible if he or she has more than $1,500 in total assets, including life insurance, a home, securities or even funeral insurance.

A married patient is eligible only if the couple owns less than $2,000 in assets. The home is exempt from that figure so long as the spouse lives in it. Any time the couple's monthly income from social security or whatever source exceeds $206.50, the excess must be paid

New York City Firemen Strike

NEW YORK (UPI) —New York City firemen went on strike today for the first time in the 108-year history of the department despite a State Supreme Court injunction that could result in contempt citations against all strikers.

The strike was called at 8:30 a.m., after mediator Eric Schmertz reported that all negotiations "have ended without a settlement."

The walkout by the city's 10,900 firemen was designed to back demands for a $2,000 a year wage increase in a one-year contract. The strike complicated the tangled labor situation in the city where 30,000 non-medical hospital workers have been on strike since yesterday and a New York Newspaper Guild strike called against the Daily News the same day halted publication of the nation's largest-circulation newspaper.

Fire Department officials immediately put into effect a contingency plan for emergency fire fighting services for the city's 15.6 million inhabitants in five counties.

Fire officers who belong to a separate union and are not striking said they would work to save lives but will not work with substitute firemen. The contingency plan calls for the use of fire officers, civilians to man hoses and the reassignment of headquarters personnel.

Pickets began appearing outside firehouses shortly after the announcement was made of the strike by a union spokesman at the Summit Hotel, where talks had been underway.

The strike was announced after Schmertz told newsmen "negotiations have ended without a settlement —at least they have ended for now. Offers and counteroffers have been explored, but they did not jell."

The injunction against the strike was signed by Justice Sidney A. Fine late yesterday and in the event of a strike automatically places in contempt the union, its officers and its membership for "willful disobedience of a lawful mandate," Fine said.

The other strikes began yesterday, halting today's publication of the Daily News, disrupting service at 48 hospitals or nursing homes, and stopping all domestic flights of Trans World Airlines.

Printers refused to cross picket lines set up by striking newsmen at the Daily News, helping bring the presses to a halt, but New Yorkers were left with two other newspapers still in operation—the Times, a morning paper like the news, and the Post, an afternoon paper.

Bork Hints A Veto On Special Prober

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork has suggested that bills being rushed through both houses of Congress to create an independent special prosecutor may face a veto by President Nixon.

He raised that possibility when he told a House judiciary subcommittee yesterday he would oppose on constitutional grounds legislation to set up a prosecutor's office free of the executive branch.

"Are you telling us that any of these bills must be vetoed?" asked Rep. Don Edwards, D-Calif., a member of the subcommittee which expects to begin writing a bill tomorrow.

"I would normally advise the President to veto a bill that alters the Constitution," Bork said without offering a direct answer.

Similar bills are under consideration by the Senate Judiciary Committee, which called Bork's predecessor, Elliot Richardson, to testify today.

Leon Jaworski, the administration's new Watergate prosecutor, was sworn in yesterday, and Bork was asked during the House hearing whether Jaworski would be allowed to sue Nixon to obtain presidential documents or tapes. Nixon fired prosecutor Archibald Cox for pursuing such a suit and rejecting a compromise proposed by the President.

Bork replied that he had told Jaworski, at a meeting attended by White House Chief of Staff Alexander M. Haig, Deputy Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen, and White House lawyers Leonard Garment and J. Fred Buzhardt, "that it must be understood he (Jaworski) has the power to go to court." He said those at the meeting "agreed with that."

Watergate Bad For FBI Morale

CHICAGO (UPI) —The FBI has suffered a decreased morale because of the Watergate scandals, Director Clarence M. Kelley said yesterday.

"We have been touched by it because we're a federal agency," he said. "There must be some sagging of morale on occasions when we are put in the same category as the people who are involved in the problem."

But Kelley added, "There is no difficulty in the organization which time and restoration of confidence will not cure."

European Bloc Makes Israeli Plea

BRUSSELS (UPI) —The nine nations of the European Common Market called on Isreal today to lay the groundwork for a Middle East peace settlement by ending "the territorial occupation which it has maintained" in Arab lands.

The resolution, which did little more than endorse and comment on earlier UN resolutions, pointedly avoided any reference to the oil crisis or to U.S.-European disputes over the war.

Foreign ministers of the nine nations, who sat up until 2 a.m. today to draft the document, were scheduled to discuss Arab threats to European oil reserves later today, but a diplomat said that the ministers felt "this meeting was not the sort at which it is possible to reach decisions" on oil.

PRO-ARAB

The Common Market statement carried a slightly more pro-Arab tinge than the UN resolution.

But it failed to live up to hopes for a specifically European approach to the Middle East and one Israeli diplomat here passed it off with the comment, "They (the Europeans) just want to prove that they exist."

The European statement endorsed UN resolutions calling first for a return to Oct. 22 cease-fire lines and then to pre-1967 boundaries.

It said peace must be based on "the need for Israel to end the territorial occupations which it has maintained" and "the inadmissability of the acquisition of territory by force."

The resolution echoed UN appeals for the right of "every state in the area to live in peace within secure and recognized boundaries." It also urged recognition of "the legitimate rights of Palestinians."

LATE MEETING

The ministers met for six hours last night and early today at the Danish ambassador's home in Brussels in an attempt to work out a joint stand toward the oil cutbacks as well as American criticism of European neutrality during the 1973 Middle East war.

Diplomats attending the meeting said the ministers decided to delay both issues until a scheduled summit conference of the Common Market's presidents and premiers in Copenhagen Dec. 14-15.

The diplomats said France and Holland took sharply conflicting positions on the oil issue at the meeting, making agreement difficult. "This meeting was not the sort at which it is possible to reach decisions," one diplomat said.

French sources said their government urged the ministers to adopt a pro-Arab statement criticizing both America and Russia. The Netherlands wanted its Common Market allies to express "solidarity" with Holland, the only European nation faced by a total Arab oil boycott.

Common Market sources said, however, informal arrangements have already been made for European nations to share oil in case of severe shortages this winter.

The draft statement endorsing the UN resolutions on the Middle East did little to meet criticism from the superpowers as well as the belligerents for a strong stand on the conflict. Diplomatic observers described the statement as bland and meaningless.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Train Crash

KASSEL, Germany (UPI) — An express train plowed into the packed tail-end car of a stationary passenger train yesterday, compressing the car into a "packet of tin" less than 12 feet long.

A federal railroad spokesman said at least 13 persons were killed and 65 injured, 25 of them seriously. Helicopters flew the injured to hospitals.

The spokesman said the 86-ton electric engine of the Kassel-to-Frankfurt express smashed into the last car of the stationary Moenchengladbach-to-Leipzig express, leaving a heap of twisted metal and broken glass.

Rescue teams used acetylene torches to cut their way into the smashed car

Terrorist Bomb

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Guerrillas set off a bomb in a crowded downtown marketplace today, killing three persons and wounding four in the latest in a rash of terrorist strikes inside the Cambodian capital.

A reporter who witnessed the blast said the bomb, apparently made out of a grenade, exploded under a vendor's table stacked with toiletries at the capital's Olympic market.

He said the vendor, one of his customers and a man standing nearby were killed in the blast.

Offensive Seen

SAIGON (UPI) — Communists fired a barrage of rockets at a huge air base on the outskirts of Saigon today in stepped up fighting described by the government as a prelude to a full-scale offensive.

Reporters at the scene said the Communists fired 27 Soviet-built 122mm rockets at the Bien Hoa air base, 14 miles northeast of Saigon, battering a runway, hangar, mess hall and fuel dump on the former American installation.

The newsmen said another 13 rockets ripped into dependents' barracks outside the perimeter and nearby headquarters of the 11-province 3rd Military Region. One of the rockets missed the international truce team compound by 200 yards.

Troop Agreement

VIENNA (UPI) — The Soviet Union and its allies plan to set a new condition for any East-West agreement on troop cutbacks in Central Europe, Warsaw Pact officials said today.

The officials said the Soviet bloc countries were concerned the United States and its allies might withdraw mainly support forces while the Warsaw Pact pulls out combat troops.

"The West is strong on support personnel and could make substantial cuts but still leave combat troops intact," one official said.

Diplomatic sources said the remark indicated the Soviet allies were now seeking not only agreement on the number of troops to be withdrawn, but also trying to specify their military function.

Rebel Victory

BANGKOK (UPI) — Military officials said today Communist-led guerrillas killed 30 soldiers in northeast Thailand in one of the worst setbacks in the government's eight-year battle against insurgents.

The officials said 24 men were killed in the fighting Sunday and another six died after being airlifted to a hospital. A dozen other soldiers were reported wounded. There were no reports of insurgent casualties.

The government said guerrillas in Thailand's Kalasin province, 270 miles northeast of Bangkok, lured the soldiers into an ambush with a false report of a nearby village under attack.

Sniper Shot

BELFAST (UPI) — British troops shot a sniper yesterday in turning back an attack against an army observation post at a country town a short drive from the frontier with the Irish Republic.

An army spokesman said a pair of snipers opened fire on the observation post at Armagh, 40 miles southwest of Belfast, sparking a shootout with the British defenders.

The spokesman said one of the snipers cried out in pain during the clash and the soldiers at the outpost saw the other raider drag the wounded man away.

Questioned On Double Slaying

PIEDMONT (AP) — A man already convicted of another crime is being questioned by police in connection with the double slaying earlier this year of a wealthy Piedmont matron and her son, authorities said.

Contra Costa Dist. Atty. William O'Malley said yesterday a convict whom he did not identify was being questioned in the Feb. 4 killings of Ellen Eccles Harrison, 67, and her son Warren Merrill, 44. The two were found shot to death in Mrs. Harrison's Cadillac, parked in a remote area near the Richmond Golf and Country Club. Mrs. Harrison's body was slumped in the rear seat and her son's body was found in the car's trunk.

The major evidence linking the man to the double murder is the fingerprints found at the ransacked Harrison home and on the car, police said.

Gurney Says Committee A Travesty

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla., in a private letter has called the Senate Watergate Committee on which he serves a "travesty" and complained that Democratic staff members do not keep the Republicans advised of what they are doing.

"I have myself been the object of two investigations in Florida by the staff of our very own committee, an action unprecedented in Senate committees as far as I know," the letter to New Hampshire' Republican Gov. Meldrim Thomson said.

The Concord Monitor yesterday quoted Samuel Dash, the committee's majority counsel, as saying Gurney, considered the administration's biggest supporter on the committee, had not written the letter, but a Gurney press aide, John Gardner, after checking the files, said he found a copy of the letter.

He said the senator was sticking by the sentiments expressed in the letter, although he had not intended them for publication.

"The Democrat staff on the Watergate Committee operates entirely on its own and does not keep the Republican staff or even the senators advised of its projects," the letter said.

"In my view, the work of this committee has been a travesty, and I can't see that it's produced any information that would not have been found out by the Department of Justice after Judge (John J.) Sirica threw the book at (Watergate conspirator James W.) McCord and broke the silence...

"The only conrete contributions we have made have been to force down the stock market, up the price of gold, devalue the American dollar, hurt the economy, and destroy the confidence of people in the American political system."

Reporter Urges That Nixon Stay

NEWARK, Del. (UPI) —One of two reporters who uncovered the mushrooming Watergate scandal told a University of Delaware audience yesterday that President Nixon should neither be impeached nor should he resign at this time.

"It's a time when a lot of anxiety, aggravation and energy that has gone into the calls for impeachment and resignation should really be directed toward getting the facts," said Bob Woodward of the Washington Post.

"There shouldn't be a knee-jerk reaction for impeachment," he told an audience of 800 at the school's "Crisis in Confidence" lecture series on Watergate. "There's too much diversion toward impeachment and the full story won't be told."

Woodward said the whole story of Watergate has not yet been told and said it is part of a bigger story of political espionage. The scandal is a White House scandal, not a party scandal, and the Republican party should not have an albatross around its neck because of Watergate, he said.

$21 Billion Weapons Package To President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has completed action on a $21.3-billion military weapons procurement bill for the 12 months ending next June 30.

A lopsided 69-12 Senate vote yesterday sent the compromise bill to President Nixon.

Although the measure is $659 million under administration requests, opponents accused Congress of having yielded to the Pentagon on every major issue.

Pentagon programs for procurement of the F14 and F15 fighter aircraft and development of a new B-1 bomber survived the legislative process intact, as well as the program for the Trident missile-firing submarine.

The bill would require a 43,000-man reduction by June 30 in the proposed active strength of the armed services, imposing a ceiling of 2,190,000.

Another amendment would reduce U.S. armed forces in Europe next year by the percentage, if any, by which North Atlantic Treaty Organization countries fail to offset the U.S. balance of trade deficit.

Three Gunmen Stick Up Bank

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police say three gunmen have robbed a Bank of America branch of $10,338.

Witnesses told officers the three men entered the Fillmore and Clay Streets branch yesterday afternoon and one leaped onto a teller's counter, ordering employes and customers to "Freeze, or we'll blow your heads off!"

Police said the man filled a paper sack with money from three tellers' cages.

Blood Donation Drive Launched

Faced by the combination of increased need for blood during the holiday season, coupled with the annual wintertime decline in blood donations, the Irwin Memorial Blood Bank has launched a widespread drive for new donors.

The blood bank, which operates wholly on volunteer donations, serves 56 Bay Area hospitals that use as much as 350 pints of blood a day.

Last December, Irwin reported, the supply fell to only 43 per cent of the reserves needed. Demand soared, but donations fell off because of the busy holiday season, bad weather and increase of winter-related illness, preventing otherwise frequent donors from giving.

One of the blood bank's three auxiliary centers is located in San Rafael. It is open from noon to 6 p.m. Mondays, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Wednesday and Fridays, and 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. the second Saturday of each month. Mobile blood collection units also travel regularly throughout the Bay Area.

Theme for the drive, which will extend through the New Year's Day, is, "There's a feeling of joy when you donate the gift of blood."

Donors may specify their blood is to be credited against their own future needs, give it to a specific person, or have it credited to group blood banks.

Youth Arrested In Robbery Case

Richard Craig Thomas, 19, of no known address, was arrested last night in Petaluma on suspicion of armed robbery.

Police said the robbery occurred at 5:50 p.m. when Jane. J. Borr, 609 C Street, Petaluma was leaving Mervyn's department store at the Washington Square Shopping Center.

She said a young man pointed a gun at her, demanded her purse and told her to return to the store.

Police said they traced the robbery to Thomas after three of his friends went to Mrs. Borr's home to return her property. He was arrested at 11:30 p.m. at a friend's home at 9 Alta Drive.

He was booked into Sonoma County Jail and scheduled for arraignment today in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court.

Agreement Said Near On Buying Old Homes

The Belvedere City Council last night set Nov. 15 as the date of a special meeting to discuss an agreement to buy five homes and their sites on Beach Road at Belvedere Cove.

Deputy City Clerk Molly M. Holsinger said Robert Gordon, chairman of a citizens open space committee, reported last night that his group had almost finished writing the agreement with the owner of the land, the Belvedere Land Co., and the Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society.

of cars equipped with converters would not be a serious problem; but he said that once two years of production are involved, "it could become a problem."

Train said sulfates represent "a significant health problem" involving "lung cancer and cardiac problems" over the long run. The concentrations of sulfates from cars equipped with converters would be especially concentrated along highways.

In general, Train said, sulfate emissions from converter-equipped cars are "substantially higher" than for older cars. In 1975 almost all cars sold in California will have to be equipped with converters and about 10 per cent of the cars sold in other states also must have them.

Train said about 20 per cent of the lead-free 91 octane gas that must be used in converter-equipped cars will be low in sulfur and can be burned without significantly adding to the sulfate problem. One strategy, he added, is to get that gasoline to the places where it is most needed, such as California. He said the EPA would begin talks with the oil industry immediately on that matter.

Another long-range solution, Train said, would be to require desulfurizing of gasoline generally; but he said that would take two to three years and cost $3 billion to $4 billion during the next decade.

Ford, General Motors and Chrysler, appearing before the Senate panel on Monday, urged Congress to keep emission standards for cars at their present levels rather than allowing more stringent rules to take effect during the next three model years.

Both the industry and the EPA have said that in the long run the problems with the catalytic converter will be solved because better technology will evolve it, making it only an interim control device.

Previously, the committee has recommended that the homes be removed or torn down to provide a better view of San Francisco Bay.

One of the structures is the cabin of a passenger ship which sailed from San Francisco to the Orient in the late 1800s.

Also last night, the council asked the city's parks and recreation commission to survey residents by mail asking if they would like the city to build two tennis courts on state-owned property between Lagoon Road and Tiburon Boulevard which the city leases from the state Division of Highways for use as a park.

Parks and recreation commissioners had requested the building of the courts at last night's meeting.

Mrs. Holsinger said councilmen warned the commissioners that if the state should ever revoke the lease and take over the land for building purposes, the courts would be lost.

Nobel Stand-In Is Appointed By Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has turned down an invitation to accept the 1973 Nobel Peace Prize in person "because of the press of business in a world beset by recurrent crisis."

In a letter to the Nobel Peace Prize committee in Oslo, Norway, Kissinger named Ambassador Thomas Byrne to accept the honor in his place during ceremonies Dec. 10. Byrne is the American Ambassador to Norway.

The letter was dated Nov. 2 and addressed to Mrs. Aase Lionaes, chairman of the committee.

ments for peace talks.

The Arab states were still tightening up their strategy and tactics to cope with any eventuality and there were intense negotiations. Egyptian President Anwar Sadat had talks last week with Syrian President Hafez Assad who joined him in the war and with the leaders of Kuwait and Saudi Arabia who financed most of it.

King Hussein of Jordan flew to the Saudi capital of Riyahd today for talks wih King Faisal and flew back to Amman immediately. Algerian President Houari Boumedienne, who has been touring Arab capitals, left Riyadh today after talks with Faisal.

Kissinger also will visit Amman and Riyahd and stop briefly today in Tunisia. Jordan and Saudi Arabia sent army contingents to Syria to fight on the Golan Heights front during the October war.

Sadat met today in Cairo with Foreign Minister Issmail Fahmi who spent a week in Washington for talks with Kissinger and President Nixon. And in Tunis President Habib Bourguiba said he was ready to discuss the Middle East with any Israeli represetative including Prime Minister Golda Meir.

Damascus radio interrupted its regular program to announce today's Israeli air attack. It said:

"At 9:35 this morning two enemy formations flew over the occupied Syrian (Golan) Heights on the central and southern sectors of the front and fired many air-to-ground missiles of the 'Shrike' type over our advanced positions.

"Our fighters and air defense systems intercepted them and prevented them from reaching their targets."

The military command in Tel Aviv reported scattered incidents with Egyptian troops today along the Suez Canal front, where a command spokesman said Cairo's forces had been built up in attack formation.

"There are only reports of scattered incidents so far," a military spokesman said. "It's just a bullet here, a bullet there."

Monday, Israel claimed Egyptian infantrymen attacked its positions near the waterway and seized Israeli ground.

In Beirut, the newspaper Al Anwar said today Kissinger was carrying to Sadat a peace proposal endorsed by President Nixon that calls for the return of the Golan Heights to Syria and the Sinai to Egypt. It said the Suez Canal would be reopened to shipping and Jerusalem would remain under Israeli occupation.

The Japanese cabinet in Tokyo today urged that a U.N. resolution calling on Israel to retire to territory held before the 1967 war with Egypt be carried out as soon as possible.

The cabinet's action edged Japan farther along the road toward diplomatic support for the Arab countries in the Middle East.

ILLNESS

to the convalescent hospital to supplement the approximate $400 a month the hospital receives under the Medi-cal program.

"A facility doesn't have to accept Medi-Cal patients," Mrs. Henry noted. She explained that convalescent hospitals must get confirmation both from the patient's doctor and a medical social worker that the patient needs "that level of care."

The certification process can take weeks, and if the confirmation is refused, "the hospital may be out all their charges" for that period, Mrs. Henry explained.

Despite the red tape and the lower fees, more than one-third of the 1,146 beds in Marin convalescent hopsitals are filled with Medi-Cal patients, Mrs. Callbeck said.

The two county workers also mentioned the homemaker program, in which the county hires persons to provide various degrees of housekeeping and other services to elderly persons. It formerly was financed by federal grants, but new welfare regulations dump all the financial load on the county. The caseload has been cut back to about 300, with the part-time home worker getting up to $200 or $300 a month.

Such workers get no social security nor other fringe benefits along with their $2.50 per hour pay.

A new law permits private firms to offer homemaker services by contract — but the contractors would have to charge $5 to $11 per hour, Mrs. Callbeck predicted.

A few Marin indigents who require minimum care get federal grants for "bed and board."

Solutions offered during this writer's explorations of the expense of lengthy illness, ranged from calls for broader insurance coverage and relaxed hospital rules, to providing federal, state or local funds to pay families for the care needed to keep the ill person at home.

"People do better in their own homes," Mrs. Henry aruged. "But we tend to cut our old people off as not counting, from the Legislature on down."

Mrs. Callbeck suggested an alternate to keeping the patient in the home or as "guest" in a convalescent hospital or nursing home.

"Why not," she proposed, find funds to "let the old people band together and hire their own staffs to serve them, not 'manage' them?

"We've suggested this in housing projects for the future.

"This would give the older persons the care they need, and the independence they want."

speeds on wet road surfaces actually ride on a film of water, causing drivers to lose control.

Although most of yesterday's accidents were not serious, one Marin resident was hospitalized after a crash. Grant Grennel, 16, of 1661 Mar West, Tiburon, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General with head injuries.

He was hurt in an auto accident about 4 p.m. yesterday, but details of the crash were not available today.

Clogged drains were reported in various areas, mainly due to leaves, still falling from trees because there has not yet been a cold snap this fall.

In San Anselmo, there was a cave-in at the site of sewer construction at San Anselmo and Mariposa avenues, and Tiburon authorities reported minor flooding at the Cove Shopping Center.

In Novato, the southbound lanes of Highway 101 at Atherton Avenue were flooded yesterday afternoon, but Warner and Novato creeks, which have overflowed during past winters, were within their banks.

Elsewhere in Northern California, "dozens and dozens" of stalled cars and two auto fires halted eastbound traffic on the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge for hours yesterday. The mess began at noon and didn't clear up until 10 p.m.

Southbound traffic out of San Francisco also was stalled on Highway 101 for a time when a truck jackknifed near the Coyote Point exit, blocking all but one lane.

In addition to more rain tomorrow, the weatherman predicted heavy snow for the Sierra and the Cascades.

Syrop Resigns Juvenile Post

Leroy J. Syrop, chairman of the Marin County Juvenile Delinquency Prevention Commission, has resigned because he plans to leave Marin for a "prolonged period of foreign travel."

Syrop, a resident of Novato, was appointed to the commission last year by Supervisor Arnold M. Baptiste and has served as chairman since February.

He will be succeeded by vice chairman Mary Milligan. Novato area residents interested in appointment to the commission may contact Supervisor Baptiste at Civic Center.

California and Oklahoma are strong for the President."

Thurmond did say, as have some other Republicans: "I think the President should furnish any information that pertains to any criminal action in connection with Watergate — and I think he will."

As the President flew back to Washington Monday night from Key Biscayne, Fla., Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told newsmen aboard the presidential plane: "We are confident the confusion over this tape thing is going to be cleared up." A US District Court hearing resumes today on two presidential tapes which the White House says never existed—among nine the President had promised to give the court.

As to whether Nixon is in any mood to resign, Ziegler said: "The President recognizes that the worst possible thing the President of the United States could do would be to walk away from the problem.

"I firmly believe that in the interest of the nation he could not step aside from the political pressure because the entire Constitution is based on the President not doing that....He is certainly not going to walk away from his office because of this difficult time ," Ziegler said.

San Marin High Hit By Vandals

Spirit apparently is running high in advance of the Novato High-San Marin High School football game Saturday.

Novato police reported that "Novato Rules" was painted on windows, doors and walls and written in soap on windows at San Marin High School between 7 p.m. yesterday and 5:30 a.m. today.

Eggs were thrown at office windows, police said. Damage was estimated at $100.

Tiller, Trailer Theft Reported

A rotary tiller and trailer, valued at $1,000 were taken at 2:45 a.m. yesterday from the front yard of the Gail G. Evans home at 488 Las Gallinas Road, she reported to police.

She said she heard a truck start up and saw it driving off with the rotary tiller and its trailer. The tiller had been rented from Gotelli Rental Service at 610 Irwin Street, she told police.

Profits will go to the school's scholarship fund, a school spokesman said.

OBITUARIES

Frank L. Lawrence Dies At 70

A Mass of the Resurrection for Frank L. Lawrence Sr., former mayor of Fairfax, will be offered in St. Rita's Church, Fairfax, at 11 a.m. Thursday.

After his one term on the city council, he was named to the Fairfax Board of Review, presiding over the lengthy hearings in 1971 and 1972 which ended in the firing of Police Chief James R. Orr. Little Leagues Back In Picture

The problem of sex discrimination by groups seeking to use public facilities in Mill Valley popped up from two directions at last night's meeting of the city council.

The first matter to be disposed of was the recurring question of whether to permit all-male Little League teams to use the city's parks. The city council, after a brief effort by Mayor Jean S. Barnard to reopen the matter, decided not to and stuck with a previous decision to forbid Little League use as long as girls are kept from playing.

The second matter was a letter from the League of Women Voters of Southern Marin suggesting that a good way to put pressure on organizations with sex discrimination built into their charters would be for the city to require such organizations seeking use of city property to open their meetings to the general public.

The council voted 4-to-1, with Mrs. Barnard dissenting, to consider the League's request next month. City staff was given until Dec. 3 to prepare a list on all organizations using city facilities and their limitations on membership.

When Sam Loy, president of the National League of Little League in Marin County, asked the council to reconsider its stand, Mayor Barnard said she didn't want to see "Little League wrecked," and asked the council to allow the teams to play next season while the council continues to urge the national organization to let girls play.

Loy said the national organization is studying a possible change in its position on girls. He said he is not against girls playing baseball but fears that physical injuries could cause problems later in life.

The physical argument won't hold water, countered Councilman Gerald J. Hood, saying that two physicians had told him girls between the ages of 8 and 14 have both high mental and muscle dexterity.

"If we stand by our earlier decision," said Councilman Robert E. Capron, "We're not terminating Little League, we're just saying be fair."

At one point Mayor Barnard seemed to be getting help from councilman Edward J. Boessenecker, who said the obligation of the city council is merely to see that the city's facilities are available on a fair and equal basis. "Little League does not monopolize the ball park," he said. "There's ample room for a girls' league."

But nothing came of that suggestion and Loy's request was dismissed without ever coming to a vote.

H. R. HALDEMAN

Haldeman Sticks By President

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Former White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman said yesterday President Nixon wanted the White House tapes only for his own future use.

Haldeman, who resigned last April and returned here where he used to be an advertising executive, also said neither he nor the President did anything "either wrong or illegal" in connection with the Watergate case.

At a "Welcome Home H.R. Haldeman Party" attended by about 70 of his friends at Perino's Restaurant, Haldeman said, "I have full confidence that when the facts on all these matters are made known that everybody in the press ... everybody in the country ... is going to realize that some erroneous assumptions have been made."

"There has been nothing either wrong or illegal done by the President and certainly nothing either wrong or illegal done by me," Haldeman told the guests, including former White House counselor Robert Finch, publisher George Hearst and UCLA Chancellor Charles Young.

His hair-style full in contrast to the crew-cut days at the White House, Haldeman said the President felt the taping was necessary because he did not like stenographers and private meetings and that other staffers could not completely reconstruct a conversation.

Haldeman said the idea of taping conversations came in a letter from a citizen who claimed the late Franklin D. Roosevelt had a recording device in his desk drawer activated by a lamp switch, according to a source at the luncheon.

The source said Haldeman indicated he felt that release of the tapes would be helpful to him and to the President in the Watergate coverup controversy.

Spokane Burning Ban Permanent

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — The Spokane County Air Pollution Control Authority hws adopted a year-round open-burning ban for the city and most of the highly populated areas bordering the city limits on the east and north.

Yesterday's move essentially was in line with burning ban proposals offered last month by the state Departmet of Ecology.

Over the past several years, open burning of garden wastes and leaves has been allowed for 30 to 60 day periods in the fall and spring.

Quentin Inmate Hospitalized After Stabbing

The second San Quentin Prison fight in three days sent one inmate to the prison hospital yesterday with a serious stab wound, San Quentin spokesmen said today.

Thomas Wells, 27-year-old robber and parole violator from Los Angeles and San Mateo counties, was reported in satisfactory condition today with a stab wound in his chest. Prison officials said Wells was wounded during a "personal quarrel" with inmate Robert Brantley, 26, of San Francisco, now in close custody. The fight happened shortly after 6 p.m.

Wells is serving a five-years-to-life sentence for robbery, assault with a deadly weapon and parole violation. Bradley is serving six months to 15 years for manslaughter, spokesmen said.

Three inmates were injured Saturday evening in a brawl involving some five inmates with knives, pieces of lumber, pipes and a sock filled with metal.

WELDER'S TORCH SPARKS FIRE

Firemen try to contain a blaze that swept through five buildings in downtown Indianapolis — a fire apparently started by a welder's torch. Hundreds of firemen and police were called into the six-alarm fire yesterday, which for awhile threatened to spread to other buildings. The fire began in the gutted building (left) and spread across the street to the 17-story Washington Hotel. Fire officials today were estimating damage as high as $15 million. There were no known injuries, firemen added.

General Plan Report Available

Six hundred copies of an initial report on San Rafael's long awaited general plan have been published for distribution to residents and city officials, the city administration announced last night.

Dozens of copies of the report were handed out last night, and more are available at city hall, according to Planning Director Herbert G. Hotchner.

The reports, available free of charge, cost about $2,000 to print, he said.

The document distributed last night was reviewed last week in a series of six articles in the Independent-Journal.

Berkeley consultants Duncan and Jones will appear at city hall at 8 p.m. Monday to explain the report and answer questions, he said. No formal meeting of city councilmen or planning commissioners will be held then, he said.

Hotchner said the report will be reviewed by the citizens advisory committee, revised by the consultants, and presented to the city council at 8 p.m. Jan. 21.

The San Rafael City Council also:

CONSENT — Approved a consent calendar, including denial of an $880 claim by the San Rafael Assembly of God Church for damage done to a church roof by a falling tree, and denial of a $150,000 claim by Glen W. Kuhl, who was injured when arrested during a melee in a city service station last May.

COMMUNE — Postponed to Nov. 19 action on an anticommune ordinance prohibiting more than five unrelated people from living in a single-family home, and told staff to review alternatives to the measure. Among alternative regulations proposed by representatives of an ashram on Culloden Park Road are ordinances regulating the number of cars permissible at one residence, providing for inspections by fire personnel, and limiting persons per bedroom or inhabitants per square foot.

RACQUET CLUB — Continued until Nov. 19 a hearing on formation of the Rafael Racquet Club Estates Public Utility Undergrounding Assessment District, pending review of petitions challenged by opponents of the move.

CITY MANAGER — Put over to Nov. 19 action on a proposed four-year contract for City Mgr. William J. Bielser. Councilmen decided that the contract, which would be subject to annual review, should include a provision for a maximum of six months severance pay, in the event the manager is fired. Mayor C. Paul Bettini proposed the contract as a means of assuring Bielser "employment stability."

CLOSED SESSION — Said the council will meet at 9:30 a.m. Nov. 17 in city hall to interview three architects for renovation of the Boyd Museum, and five candidates for deputy police chief. Two of the police candidates are from within the department, Bielser said.

LAWSUIT — Postponed to Jan. 19 a reply on Leonard Shaw's plea that the city share cost of defending voiceprint expert Ernest W. Nash, being sued for $100 million by Steven Chapter, whom he identified in a criminal trial as the man who threatened to bomb a phone company office. Chapter was acquitted.

EXPANSION — Approved plans for expansion and landscaping of the corporation yard and allocated $20,000 for the purpose as provided in the 1973-74 capital improvement budget.

DEMOLITION — Referred a proposed demolition control ordinance to the city planning commission. The ordinance would require a permit for demolishing buildings, the posting of insurance and bonds, dust control, and council approval for demolishing buildings deemed historical or of architectural significance.

WASTE — Approved a measure banning the dumping of industrial waste in storm drains or city sewers.

PARKING — Said 15 of 69 two-hour parking meters at the Third and A streets parking lot will be changed to 10-hour meters on Dec. 19.

CONTRACT — Renewed an $8,000 contract with the city chamber of commerce for services as a public information agency. The contract legally skirts a city charter regulation limiting expenditures for promotion or advertising to $1,000.

IRWIN — Declined an offer by Carl Yeakey of San Anselmo to dedicate a strip of land to the city, and said Yeakey should take measures to beautify the parcel near the Mission Avenue freeway on-ramp and Irwin Street.

TRADE — Exchanged with James R. Walker a 15,951-square-foot parcel at Auburn and Jacoby streets and $11,617 for a 12,317-square-foot parcel owned by Walker in the same area, but more ideally located for potential city use.

OPEN SPACE — Divided the city into nine geographical areas, and said two citizens will be chosen from each area to serve on a citizens open space committee charged with recommending allocation of city open space bond monies. Six residents from unincorporated areas will also sit on the committee, but as nonvoting members. The council called for applicants within 30 days.

CAR — Due to an "awful squeak" in a 1971 Oldsmobile provided by the city for use by City Mgr. William J. Bielser, agreed with Councilman Fred E. Jensen that the car should be traded in on a newer model.

EXPENSE — Directed Planning Director Hotchner to abandon a practice of providing councilmen with verbatim transcripts of planning commission meetings, calling the transcripts a "waste of time." Mayor C. Paul Bettini explained Hotchner on several occasions has been directed by commission chairman Jergen V. Lunding to provide the exhaustive accounts to councilmen since he feels Hotchner inadequately reflects commission actions.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to closed session Nov. 17. The next regular meeting is 8 p.m. Nov. 19.

Lecture On Marin Snakes Scheduled

The ecology and activities of Marin County's snakes will be discussed in a free public lecture at 7:30 p.m. Nov. 14 in the Boyd Museum of Science in San Rafael.

In a news release last week, the museum erroneously announced the program would be given tomorrow.

Yacht Club Refused Condominium Project

A bid by the Marin Yacht Club for a 20-unit condominium project on tidelands near the San Rafael Canal was rejected last night by the San Rafael City Council. (Another San Rafael City Council story, page 1.)

Councilmen split 3-2 in upholding the city planning commission's unanimous denial of a permit for the project. Councilmen Fred E. Jensen and John A. Miskimen dissented.

Development of the 2.3-acre parcel on San Pedro Road east of Porto Bello Drive was rejected by the council majority after it agreed that construction there might conflict with land uses envisioned by the city's new general plan.

A working draft of the new plan recommends that intense development of canalside parcels be outlawed and even demolished due to a high level of seismic risk.

Atty. Richard T. Tarrant, representing the club, said the project would not be affected by significant seismic risk since development would take place on piles, rather than traditional fill. The plan in the works, however, describes even pile development as potentially hazardous on canal lands, due to lateral pressures from flowing mud.

Tarrant said the project was caught in a crunch between various county agencies seeking to influence future growth.

"We can't afford the luxury of awaiting the final version of the San Rafael General Plan," he declared, saying the project must be built and occupied by Oct., 1974, or forfeit water connections under the Marin Municipal Water District moratorium.

Tarrant noted that the yacht club recently deeded a 150-foot easement to the city as public access to the Canal, and said that easement "recognized the development of the remainder of the parcel" owned by the club.

The council majority backed colleague Lawrence E. Mulryan in calling the matter a "tough decision," but one that must be made without regard to connection requirements set by the water district.

The yacht club's situation is not unlike that of Smith-Gonzalez Associates, a development firm that has proposed industrial and commercial development of Smith Ranch lands on the northeastern tip of the city.

The council several months ago rejected the proposal, pending completion of the new general plan, despite the firm's complaint that the action would scuttle any development in the area due to the Oct. 1974 deadline for occupation set by water district directors.

No Prosecution In Drugs Case

Instead of prosecution on six drug offenses, a Sausalito woman has been placed on probation for two years by Judge David R. Baty of Marin Municipal Court.

In diverting Carolyn Rae Marsh, 33, from criminal proceedings Judge Baty acted under authority of a law which gives first-time drug offenders another chance.

Miss Marsh was charged with possession of heroin, marijuana, marijuana for sale, narcotics paraphernalia and cultivating marijuana.

Drug Hearing Set For Viet War Hero

A preliminary hearing on drug charges against Vietnam War hero Richard Allen Penry of Petaluma was set yesterday for Nov. 27 at 10:30 a.m. in Southern Sonoma Municipal Court in Petaluma.

Penry, 24, stood erect and softly murmured, "Yes, sir," in military fashion when Judge Alexander J. McMahon asked if he agreed to waive his right to a speedy trial. No plea was entered to four counts of selling cocaine.

The heavily bearded Penry, who holds the Congressional Medal of Honor, looked unlike the young Army sergeant war hero of 1971. He was dressed casually in blue jeans and a warm, wool shirt.

Penry's parents, Fire Capt. and Mrs. Frank Penry, sat quietly in the spectators' gallery. Most others in the courtroom seemed concerned with their own legal difficulties and paid little attention when Penry made his brief court appearance.

Penry was arrested Oct. 4 at his home at 315 Baker Street and was described by police as a "major dealer" of cocaine. He is free on $10,000 bail.

He received the nation's highest medal for bravery from President Richard M. Nixon in an elaborate White House ceremony in June 1971. Penry also holds the Air Medal, Distinguished Service Medal and Army Commendation Medal with two Oak Leaf clusters.

Penry had worked as a cook at the Green Mill restaurant in Penngrove before and after his Army service but had been unemployed recently. Police said he had been living on the $100 per month allotment given to all congressional medal holders.

Council To Eye Project Plans For Bridgeway

Final design for the Bridgeway improvement project in Sausalito will be reviewed by the city council at 8 p.m. today in council chambers on Bridgeway.

Design of the downtown street-widening and beautification project has been approved by the planning commission and must get council approval before engineering is planned.

Councilmen will consider making all development projects that require an environmental impact report a conditional use and subject to review by the planning commission. The controversial measure is expected to meet staunch opposition from developers.

The council also will consider a citizen's appeal of a permit to operate a restaurant at Gatsby's on Caledonia Street. The permit has been granted by planning commissioners and city staff will recommend that the appeal be denied, according to City Mgr. Thomas P. McKenzie.

Bad Candy Puts Pair In Hospital

A Petaluma couple was hospitalized last night after eating Halloween candy that apparently contained an hallucenogenic drug.

Robert A. and Jennie S. Baca of 12 Vallejo Street, were reported in satisfactory condition at Hillcrest Hospital.

They told police after they had eaten several pieces of candy their children had collected they began to see brightly colored lights, became dizzy and could not stand.

Officers said the candy had been collected within the immediate neighborhood of their home, but it was not known what type of candy caused the illness. Remaining candy will be analyzed for drug content.

Police advised all parents to destroy any left over Halloween candy.

Quake Reported In Aleutians

PALMER, Alaska (UPI) — The Palmer Observatory today reported that a strong earthquake with a preliminary reading of 6.2 on the Richter Scale occurred 80 miles south of Adak in the Aleutian chain late last night.

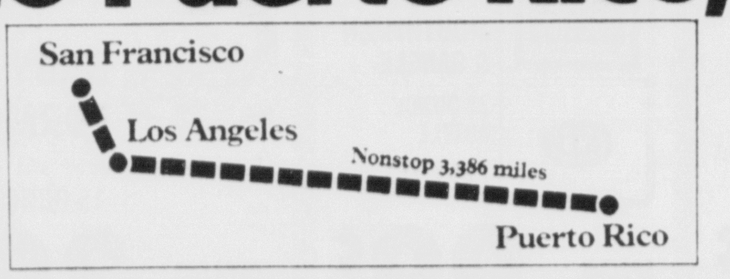

The observatory, about 50 miles northeast of Anchorage, said that no damage was reported although the temblor was felt strongly at the Adak Naval Base. The magnitude of the earthquake was not enough to generate a seismic wave, the observatory said.

The earthquake occurred at 11:36 a.m. Alaska time.

Joint Push Asked On Branch Library

A joint Rohnert Park-Cotati committee to push for a new library was proposed last night by the Rohnert Park City Council.

Councilmen said they will ask the Cotati City Council to join the effort for a new Sonoma County branch library to serve both cities.

City Mgr. Peter M. Callinan said both cities must present a combined approach to be sure the local library gets its share of federal revenue sharing funds earmarked by the county for library development.

Callinan said he prepared a long list of proposed library sites and would seek a recommendation from the county library committee on which would serve both cities best.

The county now operates a branch library in rented space in Rohnert Park, but must find a new location when the lease expires.

The Rohnert Park City Council also:

SUBDIVISION — Approved the final map by Young America Homes for 275 new houses in the El Collegio area to be built over a two-year period.

WELLS — Asked the Sonoma County Board of Supervisors to order an environmental impact report on plans to drill two new water wells in Rohnert Park to serve Petaluma. Councilmen said the impact on the water table must be carefully studied since wells in rural areas might be adversely affected.

STREETS — Awarded a contract for resurfacing Arlen, Adrian and Almond streets to Reichhold and Jukovich at the bid of $28,111. The engineer's estimate was $33,000.

DONATION — Had the city donation of $250 for a drug counseling center returned when organizers said the required grants were not available to permit the center to open.

ARCHITECTS — Hired the architectural firm of Felciano and Jeffries to design the new recreation center at Lady Bug Park.

NIXON — Heard councilman Vernon P. Smith read his personal letter, urging the resignation of President Richard M. Nixon.

MEETING — Adjourned to next Monday at 7 p.m. for a closed session to interview three applicants for two vacancies on the parks and recreation commission. They are Dr. Peter Webber, an optometrist; Tina Helgren, a legal secretary, and Donald Kite, a teacher at Rancho Cotate High School. The council will also begin review of 10 applications for city attorney.

Reckless Driving Sentence Imposed

A Novato man originally thought to have committed felony drunken driving in an injury accident in Novato has been sentenced on a misdemeanor charge of reckless driving.

Gregory Cornell Smith, 22, pleaded guilty to the reduced charge and Judge David R. Baty of Marin Municipal Court fined him $182 and placed him on a year's probation.

Novato police said Smith's car ran off the road Aug. 24, injuring himself and a passenger.

Mercy Killer Is Acquitted

FREEHOLD, N.J. (UPI) — Lester Zygmaniak, 23, who shot his brother George to death while George lay paralyzed in a hospital bed, was acquitted of murder yesterday by a jury that found him temporarily insane when he fired the fatal shot.

The killing of the crippled brother became known as a "mercy killing," although defense lawyers did not use those words in arguments.

Lester testified he told his brother: "I am here to end your pain."

"I walked over to the room, looked in and saw my brother. I asked him if he was in pain, a lot of pain. He nodded: 'Yes'."

Then, according to Lester's testimony, he shot his brother with a sawed off shotgun once in the head, and after he put his hand on his brother's heart and said: "God bless you, George, I'm sorry it had to happen like this."

George died 27 hours later.

To back up the claim of a mercy killing, George's widow related in court testimony during the trial that the night of the shooting her husband screamed:

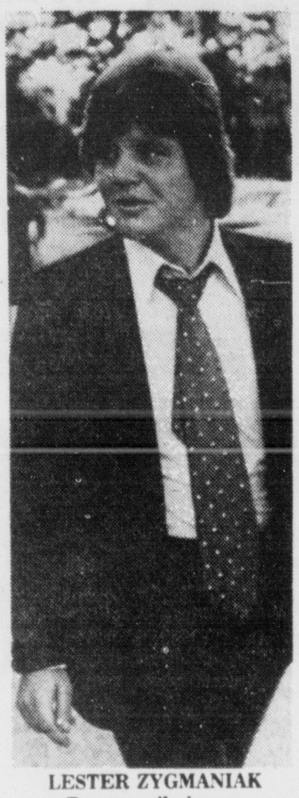

"Swear to God for me that you won't let me live.

"Promise you won't interfere, swear to God you won't interfere."

The jury could have convicted Lester of first or second degree murder, or acquitted him by reason of insanity, either temporary or permanent.

Mercy killing is not considered acceptable defense under New Jersey law.

George's widow, Jeannette, took Lester's arm and the pair walked out of the courtroom as some 75 spectators watched quietly. Superior Court Judge M. Raymond McGowan had warned the gallery against any outburst when the verdict was read.

LESTER ZYGMANIAK
Temporarily insane

The defendant's mother, Sonia Zygmaniak, wept quietly after the verdict was read, then left the courtroom and waited for her son and daughter-in-law to join her.

Zygmaniak was given his liberty immediately. There is no provision for any follow-up in the case, court officials said.

Family members said they would take Zygmaniak to the family farm in Perlimeville to start a new life.

A Victory In Supreme Court

CINCINNATI (UPI) —Ten dollars may not take you very far these days, but it got 69-year-old Edward Norwell all the way to the Supreme Court of the United States.

Norwell, fined $10 on a disorderly conduct charge Christmas night of 1971, won a reversal of the lower court decision yesterday.

The elderly man, who says his attorney fees were "much, much more than the fine involved," claimed he never was told why he was being arrested or what he allegedly had done.

The U.S. Supreme Court yesterday found that Norwell, arrested while walking from his son's place of business to his home that evening, did not use any "abusive or fighting words."

Ford Gains Capitol Hill Support

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Two days of nationally televised hearings on Rep. Gerald R. Ford's nomination for vice president left the House Republican leader today an apparent shoo-in for confirmation, but scattered opposition continued to be heard.

The Senate Rules Committee finished two days of grilling Ford yesterday and heard a Democratic senator say he has changed his mind and will probably support Ford.

In addition, a parade of 10 House members from both parties praised and endorsed Ford as the panel prepared to go behind closed doors tomorrow to hear additional witnesses. The committee did not schedule a meeting today.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., author of the Senate version of the 25th Amendment which provides for Senate and House approval of a president's nomination to fill a vacancy in the vice presidency, told the committee yesterday he had planned to vote against confirmation prior to Ford's appearance at the start of hearings Thursday.

"I am prepared to say now that if this committee does not reveal anything new, other than what you have already covered, I am prepared to go along with the nomination," said Bayh. "I was very pleased with the way he discussed executive privilege."

Ford had said that if he were president and a court wanted White House documents such as the Watergate tapes to prove or disprove allegations of criminal violations he would comply with the court order.

"I would be more comfortable if we had a man before us whose voting record was more compatible with my views on issues such as health care, education, end the war, Supreme Court justices and such things, but as author of the 25th Amendment I must say the intent was not to vote for confirmation or against because of a voting record but whether you feel the nominee is qualified," said Bayh.

One House member who thinks Ford's voting record should disqualify him said today Nixon should withdraw Ford's name and nominate instead former Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson.

"Congress would confirm Richardson immediately. Then the President should resign," said Rep. Jerome Waldie, D-Calif., in a statement he inserted in the Congressional Record.

"The people have no confidence in the present administration, and any individual as closely identified with President Nixon as is Gerald Ford will suffer from that lack of confidence," said Waldie.

Ten other House members, appeared in person before the Senate panel to endorse Ford and urge early action on his nomination.

Reps. Paul N. McCloskey Jr., R-Calif., and Donald W. Riegle Jr., D-Mich., both bitter critics of many Nixon policies, said Ford was competent not only for vice president but to succeed as president if necessary.

"Should fate or the constitutional process of impeachment so result, I believe Jerry Ford would be a superb president of the United States," said McCloskey, who ran against Nixon in early presidential primaries last year.

"I am here to declare my support for Mr. Ford's nomination and I do so with full knowledge that, if confirmed, he may well ascend to the presidency within a short time," said Riegle.

Crusade Funds

Volunteers in Marin have raised $50,911, or 34 per cent of their goal, for the United Bay Area Crusade, it has been reported at a meeting last week. Overall, a total of $8,013,134 has been raised toward the goal of $17.5 million.

Wonder Bread Hit On Growth Claims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wonder Bread, the country's largest selling white bread, has been falsely advertising itself for the past decade as an extraordinary food which will cause dramatic growth in children, the Federal Trade Commission has ruled.

At the same time, however, the FTC said it did not consider the situation serious enough to order Wonder Bread's owner, ITT Continental Baking Co., to run commercials confessing its misrepresentation. Instead, the company was ordered to stop making the claims—and the advertising campaign in question ended in 1971.

More important for the advertising industry, however, may be the FTC's declining to find Wonder Bread wrong on a more sweeping issue—the claim of a product to be "unique" when it is not.

According to the FTC, Continental did not represent Wonder Bread as nutritionally superior to any other enriched bread. Instead, the Commission limited its ruling to the extraordinary food issue, saying the bread's advertisements "had the capacity to deceive children and parents because they portrayed Wonder Bread as an extraordinary food for producing dramatic growth."

Wonder Bread's advertising campaign featured television commercials with time-sequence shots of a child growing up rapidly, coupled with the message that the product helped "build strong bodies 12 ways."

. . . . . when compounded daily and maintained for one year. This new, higher-than-ever rate at NCS is now available on 4 year accounts with a minimum balance of only $1,000.

And that's not the only choice.

There is a 30 month, $1,000 certificate paying 6.75% annually, compounded daily . . . or a 12 month certificate for $1,000 at 6.50% . . . even a 90 day account with no minimum balance that pays 5.75% annual interest plus compounding.

And don't forget the old standby, The Passbook. It's still a favorite, offering 5.25% with daily compounding and total flexibility.

No question about it. This is one race you're going to win!

Federal regulations require a substantial interest penalty for early withdrawal from any certificate.

Top Recipe Disallowed: Won Before

This year's first prize winning recipe in the Independent-Journal Holiday Recipe Contest, Chocolate Toffee-Coffee Pie, was a winner in a previous contest and therefore ineligible, as are all winning recipes from previous years.

An additional $80 is being sent to H. G. Sillery of San Anselmo, originally judged second place winner by home economist Virginia Shattuck of San Rafael.

Anne Odetto of San Anselmo, originally chosen the 1973 first place winner, was unaware that the pie received a prize in 1969 for Mrs. Barbara Loar of Mill Valley. Mrs. Shattuck was also unaware that it was a previous winner. Mrs. Odetto will keep the $100 check.

Sillery's award winning recipe is for Zucchini Bread. As second place winner he has already received $20.

Both recipes appeared Thursday in the Independent-Journal Holiday Cook Book.

Wool Blankets Smother Fire

NEW YORK (UPI) — In a fire emergency you've heard advice about wrapping the victim in a blanket to smother flames. It makes a difference which kind of blanket. The wool blanket is the one of choice. Wool smothers flames.

Some synthetics can add fuel to a fire. For this reason fire departments have stopped recommending blankets for smothering flame.

However, the wool blanket still works as well for this purpose. The Wool Bureau therefore suggests you mark your wool blankets — for safety's sake.

WEARING NORWEGIAN costumes they have made themselves, a group of Marin women, natives of Norway, meet each Monday to make handcraft items. Employing the skills they learned as children are (from left) Mmes. Christian Blom, Einar Brochmann-Hanssen, Alf Moystad and Per Hoeg. The items they have made throughout the year at Mrs. Hoeg's home in Greenbrae will be sold Thursday at a bazaar at the Norwegian Seamen's Church in San Francisco.

Handcrafts Benefit Norwegian Church

Every Monday the traditional handcraft skills they learned as children in their native Norway are put to use by a group of Marin women to create embroidery, weaving and modern handcrafts.

The point, explains Mrs. Dagfinn Kvale of San Anselmo, is to create the special and authentic Norwegian wall hangings, tablecloths, knitted sweaters and Christmas articles to be sold at the annual bazaar of the Norwegian Seamen's Church in San Francisco.

Mrs. Kvale, wife of the Norwegian Seamen's pastor, said that as a part of the Tabitha guild, women's auxiliary of the church, the Marin women gather each Monday at the home of Mrs. Per Hoeg in Greenbrae to hold their workshop. They include wives of members of the Norwegian Consulate, the University of California faculty and international shipping lines.

Their bazaar will be held Thursday from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. at the Norwegian Seamen's Church, Hyde and Francisco Streets, San Francisco, which Mrs. Kvale explained also serves as a center for Scandinavian seamen from ships calling at San Francisco. She explained that the largest number of foreign seamen visiting San Francisco are Norwegians.

For the bazaar festivities the women will wear the national costumes representing each of the Norwegian valleys they are from and which they stitched themselves on traditional designs. There will be Scandinavian films, gifts and prizes and coffee and a Scandinavian Christmas bake.

The Marin women in the group include Mmes. Kvale, Hoeg, and Christian Blom, Finn Dale and Arne Kionig of Kentfield; Hans Berge and Sollaug Pacheco of Corte Madera, Magnus Fjortoft and Ingrid Roberts of San Rafael, Eva Moystad and Edda Ruud of Fairfax.

Mrs. Colin Mason Heads Volunteers For Sanctuary

The new Volunteers of Richardson Bay Sanctuary has elected Mrs. Colin Mason of Tiburon chairman, Mrs. Thomas Belton of Belvedere, secretary-treasurer and Mrs. J.C. Youngberg of Ross research chairman.

The volunteers have helped Mrs. Calvin Terwilliger for many years with Discovery Field Trips at the Audubon Society's wildlife sanctuary on Tiburon Boulevard in Tiburon. These trained naturalists instruct Marin young school children in rudiments of ecology and give them an out-of-doors experience.

This year the naturalist guides formalized their group. Future elections will be held in May.

The group meets with a morning and an afternoon class of 25 to 40 children every Thursday during the school year. The leader tells out-of-doors stories to the whole class and divides the students among the guides for a visit to the beach, grassland, chaparral and pond.

Membership is open to anyone who enjoys helping children to know the out-of-doors, according to Mrs. Mason. The research chairman prepares monthly information programs for volunteers. The volunteers are writing a handbook to help new members.

New Role Asked Of Advertisers

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — A famed motivational researcher calls on the billion dollar advertising industry to sell more than its products — also sell good citizenship.

The suggestion couldn't come at a better time.

As the researcher, Dr. Ernest Dichter puts it, "We may all know how to recite the pledge of allegiance, or how many presidents there were, but living in a democracy, as our Watergate hearings show, demands something entirely different.

"How many of us have really learned to combat prejudices within ourselves? How many have learned to accept criticism, to live with a president they did not vote for, to react not emotionally to the issues, but in an intelligent and rational way?"

Dichter, head of the Institute for Motivational Research, Inc., Croton-on-Hudson, N.Y., says that "billions of dollars are spent on advertising and a good portion of it now is devoted to fulfilling the task of social responsibility."

BUT HE indicates there's room for much more awareness in the business community. For one, he will tailor a citizenship test for a client — he's already devised one for one corporation.

Writing in the current "Findings", institute publication, Dichter tells some methods by which good citizenship can be sold.

"For example," he said, "in asking people to decide between one brand and another, they could very well teach them at the same time how one makes decisions altogether, which of course is an extremely important process in voting, and is not being taught at present in elementary or high school.

"The advertiser could be of great help and do something worthwhile, both for his product and for the improvement of our democratic institutions.

"The advertiser also can sell the public on awareness of one's emotions and often lack of control over them."

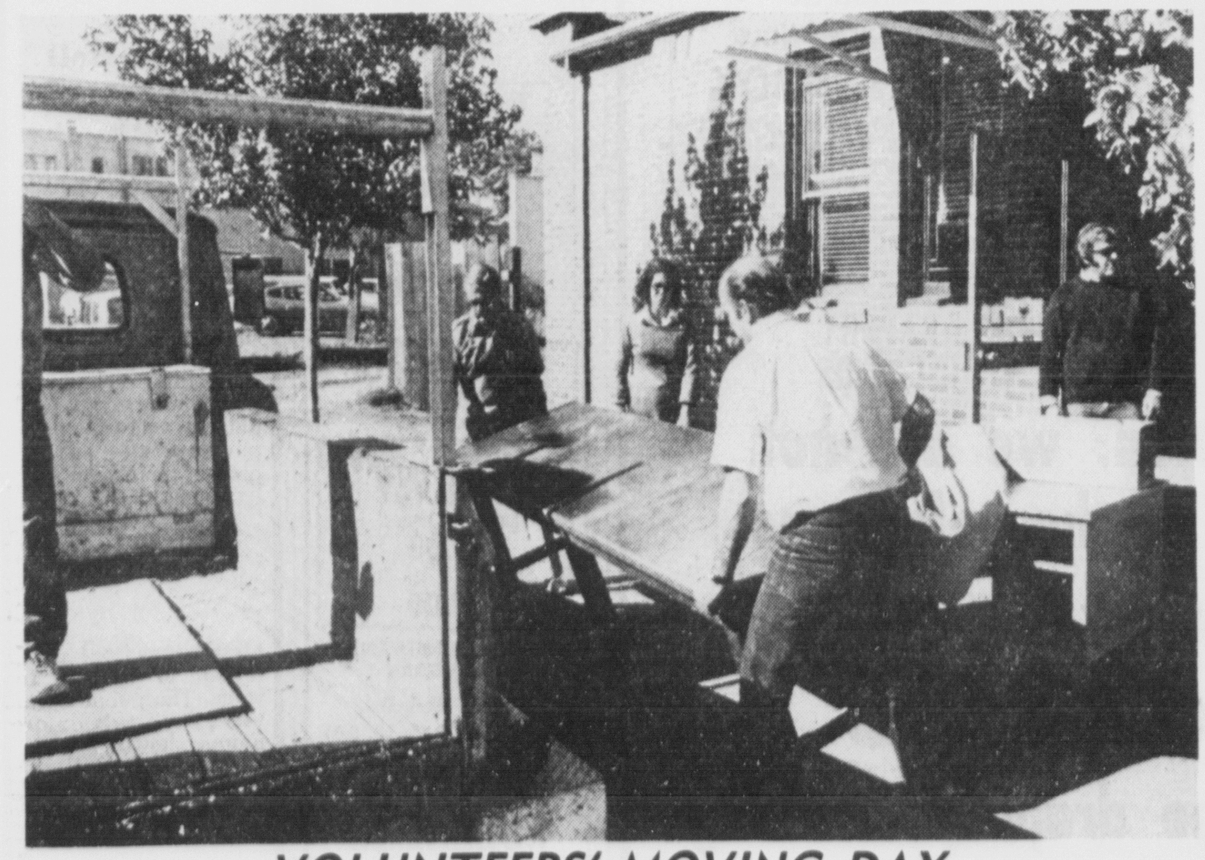

DICHTER TELLS how. "The advertiser could refer to a particular product or service and say, Be aware that you may well be guided . . . by your own emotions. In other words, we are not trying to put one over on you. Of course we're playing on your desire to be more beautiful . . . the innate desire that most of us have for safety or for security. That's why we write the ads and the commercials the way we do, trying to sell you insurance.

"But instead of using any kind of subversive approaches, we are telling you about it quite openly . . . you are being influenced much more than you think by emotion. For example, you may vote for a candidate just because he is good looking or because he has a nice voice, but he may really not be the right kind of public servant."

Dichter says advertisers should be honest in their claims and honest with the reader or listener in what the advertiser is doing.

A commercial for a garment could also carry the message, be guided by your own beliefs even though your friends may tell you the garment is not right for you — "Have your own standards and don't just bend with the wind. That's the kind of citizen who will not be too easily influenced by rhetoric or false propaganda."

In other words, says Dichter, with such sales approach, "it might be possible to instill . . . another lesson in democratic living."

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

She Thinks Ms. Is Silly And Plans To Keep Maiden Name

RAP:

This "Ms." for married women is silly when all you have to do is keep your maiden name.

There's no law that says a woman must call herself "Mrs. or Ms. Joe Schmidt" just because she's his wife. Outside of legal documents, you can call yourself whatever you please, and I don't see any reason why I must give up the name I've lived with 22 years just because I'm married. — JANE DOE, soon wife of JOE SCHMIDT

DEAR JANE:

No reason (if your husband, family, friends, etc., don't create too many complications.) After all, professional people were staying with their maiden name long before liberation came along.

But somehow I think this hassle over what we're called clouds the real equality issue, which is a lot more than name-deep. — HELEN

JANE:

. . . And if there are children, are they little Schmidt-Does, or do they get a choice?

I read of a new trend (or anyway suggestion) the other day: husband and wife might take a name which combines both the old ones. In your case, it wouldn't be the greatest idea, however — Jane and Joe Schmoe! — SUE

HELEN AND SUE:

Could you tell me how the name "gay" came to mean homosexual? — W.D.

W.:

I really don't know. Come to think of it, "gay" isn't a good description, for some homosexuals are often anything but happy. — SUE

READERS:

I'm sure some of you out there know how and why the word "gay" was incorporated into homosexual language. Please tell us.

(All I come up with is a contraction of "gal" and "guy," and I'm sure that isn't right.) — HELEN

DEAR RAP:

For years we have spent Christmas with my cousins, alternating one year at their house, one year at ours. We all look forward to this very much and have a wonderful time.

This year my second oldest cousin is engaged. She doesn't want to come to our house for Christmas as she just can't leave her boyfriend! So her mother says, in that case, the whole family won't go. She's 21.

There's not enough sleeping room here for him to stay five days and he can't afford a motel.

Is it right for one person to ruin Christmas for 14 people? It wouldn't kill my cousin to be separated from her guy over one holiday. — STUF

DEAR STUF:

I suspect this is a personal clash between mother and daughter, and you cousins are being pulled in to "hot up" the fight.

Two obvious solutions: Let the 21-year-old girl stay home and have Christmas with her fiance's family. She's old enough to make her own decisions.

Or, plan the annual get-together at your cousins' home, even though it breaks the sequence. You can have the next two at your place, to even things up. — HELEN

STUF:

I can understand a girl not wanting to be away from her fiance over Christmas — but if the parents really liked the guy they could manage something.

What's wrong with a sleeping bag on the floor? In close-knit families there's always room for one more. — SUE Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, San Rafael, Ca 94902., if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.

IUD Is Now Viable For The Childless

(I-J Special Report

LA COSTA, CALIF. — The intrauterine device (IUD) is now a viable birth control method for women who have never had children, according to a medical study reported here last week at the annual meeting of the International Family Planning Research Association.

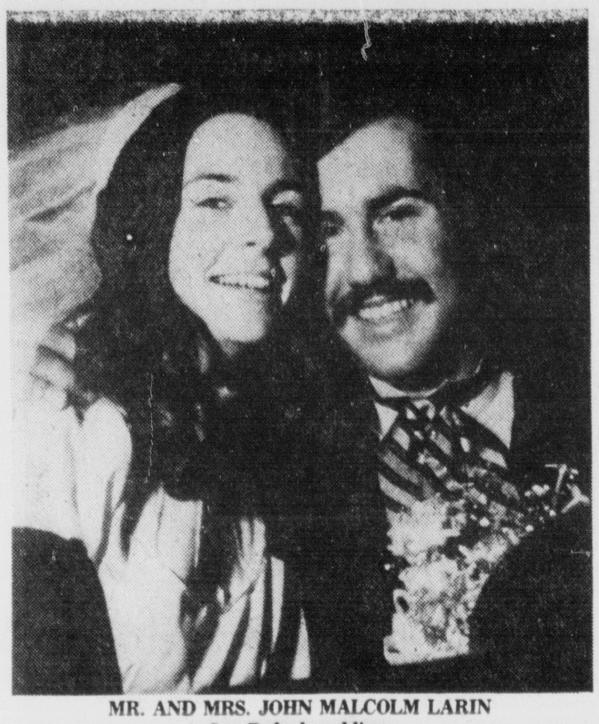

IUD's are used by more than 3,000,000 women in the United States to prevent unwanted conception. However, until recently, the devices were not tolerated well by childless (nulliparous) women.

Now, according to Dr. Betty J. Vaughn,drector of the Orange County (Fla.) Maternity and Infant Care Projects, a new device called the Saf-T-Coil Nullip provides the same degree of protection, with the same levels of tolerance, as ther deices provide for women who have borne children.

Dr. Vaughn reported a 22-month study of the new device, which involved 206 patients in public health clinics in Forida. Highlight of the report was the zero pregnancy rate achieved with the small device. Another important point was ease of insertion, achieved in nearly 90 percent of all cases, with the other patients experiencing only mild discomfort during insertion. Previously, insertion in nulliparous patients has been a problem.

Dr. Vaughn's report cited recent studies conducted in Florida which showed high levels of contraceptive failure with other methods in the patient population under study, the birth control pill being the principal failed method.

"Clearly," Dr. Vaughn observed, "the young patients need an alternative form of birth control to orals and the more traditional methods such as condoms and diaphragms. Preferably, this alternative method should serve patients with low motivation. The intrauterine device designed specifically for the nulliparous patient fulfills that need."

No Action On Muzzi Ordinance

Adoption of an ordinance barring commercial uses from the Dominic Muzzi diked marshland in the Corte Madera redevelopment area was postponed for a second time last night by the town's council.

Councilmen decided to consider the ordinance at their first meeting in January, although Councilman Robert J. Flahive urged action last night. It also was postponed last month.

Mayor Herber C. Leney said the delay would allow the council to see how the town's proposed general plan will affect the area and give time to review a court suit filed by Muzzi.

Leney said the council has not been officially served with the $5 million suit by Muzzi charging the town and its redevelopment agency with conspiring to take his property without paying a fair price.

Leney and Councilman Edward W. Colthurst, holding a majority on the three-man council, decided the ordinance should be delayed until January.

The Corte Madera Town Council also:

PLANNERS — Referred to its finance committee a $6,054 bill for services and a $7,746 estimate of additional costs by Sedway-Cooke, town planners, for completion of the general plan.

TENNIS — Referred to staff for further study a recommendation that the Corte Madera Tennis League be included in the town recreation program.

AGREEMENT — Referred to town planning commission for study a request from the City County Planning Council of Marin for review by the planning council of major developments within the town.

PLAN — Delayed scheduling hearings on the proposed general plan until Dec. 3.

SEWER — Approved plans and specifications for sewer repair work to prevent infiltration of rain water into the system in Redwood, Willow, Palm, Baltimore area. Estimate for the project is $18,160.

DEVELOPER — Referred to planning commission a resolution prohibiting developers from having more than one plan before town boards and commissions at any time.

LANDS — Referred to planning commission an ordinance restricting zoning requirements within the town to buildable lands only, exclusing such areas as those with extreme slopes.

MUZZI — Ordered Town Mgr. Ronald E. Bartels to review appraisal by Golden Gate Bridge District of the Muzzi property and to halt town expenditures for such appraisal.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to next regular meeting Nov. 19 at 7:30 p.m. in town hall.

Sex Crime Defendant In Custody

A military policeman, already convicted of sex crimes for which he is to be sentenced Friday, has been taken into custody to protect his life in the wake of allegations that he paid an 8-year-old girl for a series of sex acts.

Gennaro William Gaglione, 32, was arrested Friday and held for his own safety by order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson, and Judge E. Warren McGuire, who presided over Gaglione's trial, continued the order for protective custody yesterday.

A superior court jury convicted Gaglione Oct. 23 of oral sex, attempted kidnapping and assault with a deadly weapon, all stemming from violent encounters with three hitchhikers in Marin over a six-month period.

Before his trial, during it and after conviction, according to an affidavit filed by Deputy Dist. Atty. Michael A. Gridley, Gaglione paid an 8-year-old child for five acts of oral sex.

The allegations came to light after the girl told her 10-year-old sister she performed the sex act Wednesday in Gaglione's bathroom at his Presidio home. The sister told her father, who called base police, Gridley said. The girl told investigators Gaglione paid her 10 cents the first four times and 20 cents on the last occasion.

When news of Gaglione's latest alleged sex crimes spread through the Presidio, several persons, including the girl's father, hinted they might try to take matters into their own hands.

Gaglione will be sentenced Friday. He could be sentenced to as long as life in prison on the three felonies for which he already stands convicted.

Building Ban Is Approved By Council

A building moratorium on all property of at least one acre, or on five adjoining parcels regardless of size, was imposed last night on a 3-0 vote by the Corte Madera Town Council.

The moratorium is intended to allow time for completion of the town's general plan and prohibits all residential development, building or rezoning of property.

It will become effective Dec. 5 and prohibits building for six months. But because adoption of the general plan is expected in December or January, the moratorium will probably not last the full six months, according to Councilman Robert J. Flahive.

Redevelopment Study Tonight

What steps should be taken by the Reed School District if the City of Tiburon sets up a redevelopment agency in its downtown area?

The school district board will discuss that question tonight at 8 o'clock at Del Mar School. According to Supt. Ralph D. Giovanniello, Richard V. Godino, assistant county counsel, will give a report on what financial problems the district faces if Tiburon goes ahead with redevelopment.

Under the project, assessed valuations in the downtown area would be frozen for all special taxing districts.

Youth Cited For Auto Burglaries

A Corte Madera youth was caught last night siphoning gas from an automobile and later charged with several auto burglaries in the town, police reported today.

Police said Royal Miller of 413 Robin Drive caught the 17-year-old youth siphoning gas from his car and called police. A search of the youth's car revealed four car speakers, clothing, personal checks, a portable radio, stereo tape player and several tapes taken in recent auto burglaries, police said.

The youth was cited for burglary and possession of stolen property and released, police said. His name was withheld on standing order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

Fire Truck Plays Part In A Rescue

If it hadn't been for the height of a fire truck's cab and the work of two San Rafael firemen, a 12-year-old girl might have drowned yesterday.

The firemen were returning to the Terra Linda Fire station — the cab of their truck affording them a loftier perch than available to cars for viewing — when from that elevation they saw the girl in trouble. She was floating down the drainage ditch in the 700 block of Freitas Parkway.

Firemen Michael McCusker and Lindy Rosson promptly pulled Betsy Grabrian of 445 Hickory Lane from the rushing water of the drainage ditch.

She was taken to the fire station where she was dried off and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Victor M. Gabrian, notified.

According to firemen, she was shaken up, but unhurt.

She had been playing along the ditch with another unidentified girl when she fell and was swept downstream. Her companion was unable to keep up with her in the rushing water, firemen reported.

Sentencing Set On Charge

Sentencing for Adam Nicholas Mikolon, 43, who pleaded guilty to assaulting a policeman, will be Nov. 16 in Marin Municipal Court.

Mikolon, of Santa Venetia, originally was charged with a felony count of the same offense but Judge Peter Allen Smith reduced it to a misdemeanor following a preliminary hearing.

San Rafael police said Mikolon slugged officer Ted Lundquist Aug. 22 during what was termed a brawl at the Villa Rafael Tavern.

Tragedy Follows Two-Car Accident

SOUTHPORT, England (UPI) —Margaret Bowers, 56, saw the wreckage of her husband's milk truck and raced 150 yards to the policeman at the accident scene. There she collapsed and died of an apparent heart attack, police said.

Her husband Charles, 62, escaped with only shock from the two-vehicle collision yesterday.

HARRY JAMES
Touch of nostalgia

James, Band Concert Set For Nov. 17

Harry James and his big band will bring a touch of nostalgia to older Marin residents and what could be a new sound to younger persons in a concert at 8:30 p.m., Nov. 17, at the Veterans Memorial Building in San Rafael.

This will be the only Bay Area appearance of the trumpeter and his band.

Featured with the James band are Sundi Martino, Les DeMerle, Eddie Easton, Quin Davis and Tom Kelly.

James was a teen-aged trumpeter in 1930 when he landed a job with Benny Goodman's band. He formed his own band in 1939.

In an era of big bands, his blaring trumpet soon made his band one of the most popular. He recorded his first million-seller hit record in 1941. His popularity has not waned since that time, not only in this country but all around the world.

CANDLELIGHT CONCERT — Marin soprano Gwen Curatilo will perform with the Rolf Ermeler Duo in a candlelight concert Sunday at 8 p.m. at Del Mar School, Tiburon. Flutist Ermeler and his wife, Maria Ermeler-Lortzing, a pianist, are from Luebeck, West Germany.

CHP Orders 1,650 New Dodge Cars

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Highway Patrol announced yesterday that Swift Dodge of Sacramento will supply 1,650 patrol cars during the 1974 model year at $3,567 per vehicle.

The patrol said Swift Dodge was the low bidder of three submitted to the Department of General Services. One of the others was from another Dodge dealer and the third from Chevrolet.

The vehicles will have tinted glass in all windows, power steering, power brakes and air conditioning. They also will include heavy duty suspension, electrical systems and upholstery designed for police use.

Before the cars are assigned to the field they are equipped with radio, siren, public address system, first aid kit, fire extinguishers and push bumpers at an additional cost of $1,700 per vehicle.

Doctor Tells Of Cancer Fight Block

BADEN-BADEN, Germany (UPI) — Penetrating a tough "protective shield" around cancer tumors is a chief block to the world wide fight against the killer affliction, a West German researcher told the weekend International Cancer Congress.

Dr. Hans A. Nieper, president of the congress, told fellow research workers the shield has been hampering efforts to detect cancer cells.

Other researchers said it may be possible to prevent the beginning of cancerous growths once the "protective shield" has been penetrated.

Some experts told the congress drug therapy has become a dead-end road and that surgery and X-ray treatment have reached a stage where "further progress appears unlikely."

About 500 scientists from around the world — including the United States, Canada, France, Britain, South Africa and China — attended the two-day congress that ended Sunday in this Black Forest resort in southern Germany.

Nieper told his colleagues research work has shown there are certain substances entering only tumorous cells, acting as inhibition agents inside.

Nieper said the human organism's power of resistance against tumorous growths is considerably greater than previously believed.

Researchers said drugs developed and manufactured in the fight against the disease appear to contain "too many poisonous ingredients."

The congress also heard a report by Dr. Lloyd Schloen of New York, a member of the Sloan-Kettering Institute, on the controversial drug laetrile. The drug's manufacture and use is prohibited in the United States.

"We are still evaluating the drug and I think the evaluation process will still be going on for some time," Schloen said.

COLLEGE CONCERT — Pianist Peter Mintun will be one of three musicians performing in a multi-media concert, "From Gottschalk to Modern Jazz: 125 years of American Music" Nov. 18 at 7 p.m. at the College of Marin Fine Arts Theatre.

Guilty Plea Made To Impersonation

A Woodacre man, who pleaded guilty to impersonating a physician to obtain a prescription, will be sentenced on the misdemeanor Nov. 30.

David George Peterson, 26, admitted telephoning a San Rafael pharmacy Sept. 7 and ordering a prescription pain killer.

Some Lower Speed Areas Are Planned

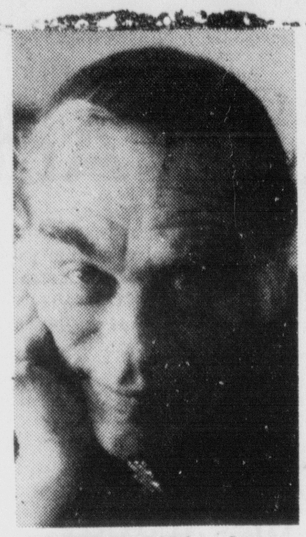

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The newly created state Energy Planning Council today ordered the maximum speed limit on certain freeways be reduced from 70 miles per hour to 65 effective Dec. 1.

The roll back will conserve an estimated 10 million gallons of gasoline and Diesel fuel a year and is aimed at helping to ease the current "energy crisis."

Affected by the action will be 1,450 miles of freeway in 33 rural locations throughout California. The state Department of Transportation will begin changing the speed limit signs by Dec. 1.

The council, headed by Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, put the finishing touches on the plan yesterday. A spokesman said it had been previously broadly endorsed by Gov. Ronald Reagan's cabinet.

The basic maximum speed limit in California is set by law at 65 miles per hour but the secretary of the Business and Transportation Agency has the authority to increase to 70 m.p.h. on freeway secions that meet certain safety and design standards.

BIRTHDAY GALA — James Broughton, San Anselmo poet, playright and filmmaker, will be honored at a two-part program "James Broughton 60th Birthday Gala Celebration of Film and Poetry" at the College of Marin. Broughton will read his poetry in a program Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Theater and five of his films will be shown Nov. 14 at 8 p.m. in Olney Hall.

Not A Candidate

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill. (UPI) —Rep. Kenneth J. Gray, D-Ill., announced yesterday he will not seek an 11th term in 1974.

Four Seeking $1.5 Million For Injuries In Blaze

Four persons injured when they jumped out of a third-floor apartment in Mill Valley to escape a fire filed a $1.5 million damage suit yesterday in Marin Superior Court.

They accused six individuals and four companies of negligence in building and maintaining both the apartment at 20 Shelly Drive and a gas wall heater which apparently caused the July 6 fire.

Critically injured when they leaped onto mattresses on a cement patio, the suit said, were Stephanie Miller, 27, and Suzanne V. Berns, 31.

Also hurt were Alan Friedman, 28, and Jim Berns, 31. The Bernses, of Los Angeles, were guests of the other two, according to the suit.

Filed by San Rafael attorneys Hadden W. Roth and Tom Thorner, the suit names the owner of the 10-unit apartment building, its builders, the present and former managers and companies which built both the apartment and the wall heater.

Two Mill Valley firemen also suffered minor injuries while fighting the fire, which caused $50,000 damage to the apartment and contents.

Fighting Cock Wounds Are Fatal

SINGAPORE (UPI) —Lim Ah Kim, a 66-year-old former pedicab driver, died Sunday from wounds inflicted by a fighting cock, neighbors reported today.

They said the cock planted its spurs into Lim's leg in the backyard of his home. Lim waited two days before he sought treatment and the wounds became infected. He died after being admitted to the hospital for treatment.

AUTO, TOW TRUCK COLLIDE

California Highway Patrol officers tend to an injured motorist in his car, during a spate of highway accidents in Southern Marin. Alfred J. Ivani Sr., 63, of 32 Almanor Drive, Greenbrae, suffered a cut nose and possible head injuries when his auto and a Mill Valley tow truck collided at 8:15 a.m. today on the frontage road south of the Strawberry shopping center, as Ivani was leaving a store's parking lot. He was taken to Marin General Hospital. Another collision on Highway 101 15 minutes later tangled commute traffic briefly. No details were available; the patrol office in Corte Madera was closed for Election Day.

'Human Sexuality' Course Approved

By BILL ROBERTS

A course in "Human Sexuality" will be taught in three Marin high schools next spring as a pilot course for a possibly expanded program the following school year.

Tamalpais High School District trustees last night approved materals for the sexuality course after two hours of discussion. Only two members of an audience of about 50 persons spoke against it.

Trustees voted 4-to-0 to approve the course (trustee Frank L. Miller absent) for the district's three high schools. At least four classes of about 30 students each will be conducted in ninth and 10th grades.

Dr. Darrell F. Smith, a member of the district citizens' advisory committee on sex education who last week spoke against the proposed course at its first public hearing, again voiced strong opposition.

He called it "too much of a how to do it and where to do it course" and described one text on abortion as a group of one-sided scare stories.

Smith disagreed with arguments that the course would provide "preventive medicine" for inquisitive students and described teachers of the course as "merchandising dollar doctors who dispense what articulate students want."

He was joined in opposition by a second speaker who said he is the parent of teen-agers attending district schools.

But trustees sounded unmoved by the two opponents' arguments as each trustee voiced support for the proposal before voting to approve the course.

Trustee Bette Wallace, who last week had reservations about approving the course without reviewing materials to be used, said the board "cannot sidestep the need to address this problem."

Other speakers supporting the course were Dr. Thomas M. Lorch, district coordinator of instruction; Dr. Edward N. Boyce Jr. of Kentfield; Edward C. Faber, former chairman of the district citizens' advisory committee; Dr. Judith Fabian, Tamalpais High School psychologist; Frank Gold, Tamalpais Federation of Teachers; Elizabeth Stong, student advisory representative to trustees; and Supt. Robert D. Torrey.

The prospectus said the program will help the student "grow to maturity in the area of sexuality." Content ranges from debunking sexuality myths to forms of sexual response.

On a motion by Mrs. Wallace, the board requested an evaluation by students, parents and staff after the pilot program next spring for board use in consideration of continuing the course.

Beach Said Not Under Nudity Law

Marin Supervisors didn't have Bolinas Beach in mind when they adopted an antinudity ordinance, Bolinas attorney Paul D. Kayfetz argued today in Marin Municipal Court.

Kayfetz asked Judge David R. Baty to rule the privately owned beach — which nevertheless is used by the public — is not covered by the coverup law.

Deputy Dist. Atty. John D. Posey Jr. countered the county may not own the beach but it has the right to bar nude sunbathing there.

Baty gave the attorneys 15 days to file written arguments and said he will rule thereafter.

Kayfetz represents five persons — four from Bolinas and one Colorado man — accused of skinnydipping July 24.

In an attempt to show Bolinas Beach does not fall within the category of publicly owned lands, and thus is exempt from the nudity law, Kayfetz put County Counsel Douglas J. Maloney on the stand.

Maloney said Bolinas Beach falls somewhere in between property "such as county parks, in which the county has an absolute proprietary interest, and private property, in which the county has none."

He conceded supervisors didn't have Bolinas Beach in mind when they adopted the ordinance in 1970.

In a related case, a hearing date will be set Friday for a bid by Fred Hurvich, an American Civil Liberties Union attorney, for acquittal of three persons accused of nude sunbathing July 21 at Muir Beach.

It was largely with the intent of halting nudity at that beach that supervisors passed the coverup ordinance.

Chamber Votes Against Lighted Yule Decorations

The Mill Valley Chamber of Commerce decided yesterday to join the wave of businessmen nationwide who will help save energy by doing without lighted Christmas decorations this year.

Chamber Mgr. Carol B. Healy said the group originally had planned to reduce its lighted outdoor decorations but now has decided to have none. It will use unlighted, daytime decorations, she said, and is seeking volunteers to help install them.

Also yesterday, the chamber completed arrangements with the city for free-two-hour parking in metered spaces from Nov. 23 through Dec. 26 to benefit Christmas shoppers.

Aviary Stolen

Someone took a 12-foot-high aviary valued at $300 from the rear yard at 1023 E Street, San Rafael Mayor C. Paul Bettini reported yesterday to San Rafael police. The theft occurred sometime during the past week, Bettini reported.

Bus Schedule Plea By College Opposed

The staff of the Marin County Transit District today opposed a plea to juggle bus schedules to suit College of Marin students, arguing the college should adjust its class schedule instead.

Robert L. Harrison, assistant general manager of the transit district, conceded that buses now depart the college one minute before classes end on the hour. But to change the bus schedule "will mean a number of transfer points across the county cannot be maintained," he reported to district directors.

The board agreed with Harrison after little discussion, and directed him to meet with the college staff to work on his proposal. If classes ended at five minutes to the hour the problem would be solved, "with the least inconvenience to the general public," he said.

In a letter to former student body president Gregory C. Fearon, Harrison acknowledged such a change would not help students from the Terra Linda area because of bad bus connections.

He suggested these students "spend some time on the campus, either in the library or on other activities."

Harrison also conceded the college "would have some trouble changing its habits, but I believe that this is the kind of change that not only educational institutions but other major employment centers as well must be willing to undertake."

He noted he also was asking the county supervisors to juggle working hours for county employees so more can take the bus. (Fearon reported that only 15 persons arrived at the Marin Civic Center on four buses today between 7:30 and 8:30 a.m. The county government, the largest employer in Marin, has 1,535 employees.

Marin County Transit District Directors Also:

CHRISTMAS — Agreed to increase local bus service between Sleepy Hollow and Terra Linda, via downtown San Rafael and Northgate during the Christmas season, but only if the San Rafael City Council agrees to split the deficit of some $2,000.

WHEELS — Renewed for 1974 a $60,000 subsidy to Whistlestop Wheels to transport the elderly, sick and handicapped, the average subsidy computed at $1.38 for each passenger carried.

REHABILITIATION — Rejected an appeal from the state Department of Rehabilitation to restore scheduled bus service so two or three handicapped persons a day can reach its office in the Northgate Industrial Park. The district's staff was asked to find volunteer agencies to take over the transportation.

PARADISE — Asked the staff to check further on the feasibility of bus service in the morning from Paradise Cay to Redwood High School.

SAN DOMENICO — Asked the staff to seek a change of class schedules at San Domenico School instead of adding a bus late in the afternoon.

RICHMOND — Endorsed the application of a private bus operator for a Public Utilities Commission permit to serve between San Rafael and Richmond, providing the operator agrees not to seek compensation from public transit systems that eventually may put the private operator out of business.

FORMULA — Received staff notice a meeting between committees of directors of the transit district and Golden Gate Bridge District will be held at 10:30 a.m. Monday in toll plaza offices to negotiate a formula to share the cost of local bus service.

BIKE PATH — Shelved a suggestion by Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini that the Tiburon bicycle path be widened to accommodate a parallel lane for exclusive bus use.

Woman Found Dead By Friends

Worried friends found a San Rafael woman dead in her apartment last night, the Marin County coroner's office reported today.

The body of Constance D. Nichols, 23, was found at 10:10 p.m. in Apt. 2 of 1533 Fourth Street, after a friend, Michael J. Smith of San Rafael, climbed in a rear window when she failed to answer the door.

Coroner's deputies said another of Miss Nichols's friends reported she had undergone surgery on her left knee last month, and had been taking pain killers for it and for a stomach ailment.

Miss Nichols was a technician for the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. in Sausalito.

A Volunteer Program Is Outlined

A new community volunteer program for the Sausalito School District was unveiled last night for district trustees.

Under the plan being developed by district staff and the Parent-Teacher Association, parents and other community members would help regular teachers in routine classroom work, such as helping individual students with reading, mathematics and other subjects, according to Supt. Donald W. Johnson.

In addition, persons with special talents or skills, for example, physicians, lawyers, artists, would be called on by teachers to give classroom presentations periodically, Johnson said.

The district currently has a classroom aid and volunteer program but it is very limited in the number of persons it involves, the superintendent said. Questionnaires about the new program will be circulated to parents in the near future.

Trustees also hired Jesse Garcia as custodian and groundskeeper at a salary of $561 per month. They set minimum days for parent conferences at Martin Luther King School for next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday and at Bayside School Nov. 19, 20 and 21.

Following the public meeting, trustees met in closed session to instruct the district representative in salary negotiations with district employees. No action was taken, Johnson said.

Bus Shelter Contract Is Announced

A $23,871 contract to build nine bus shelters that get soaked inside by a heavy rain was approved today by directors of the Marin County Transit District.

Gilson Contractors of San Anselmo was the lowest of eight bidders. The highest was $40,986. The district's staff had estimated the cost of 10 shelters at $20,000, but the total was $26,571 including the prototype erected at San Anselmo's Hub.

Several directors acknowledged the Hub shelter showed the design by the district's staff offered virtually no protection against the sort of storm that hit yesterday. They agreed, however, the shelters are intended only as a start toward protecting bus riders from the elements.

Larger shelters are being planned by the Golden Gate Bridge District, but will not be built until after this year's rainy season. The county shelters are supposed to be up by January.

There are about 600 bus stops in Marin.

The nine shelters will be at the following locations:

Strawberry Town and Country Village Shopping Center, East side of Reed Boulevard approximately 200 feet north of Belvedere Drive; Tiburon, North side of Tiburon Boulevard at Cecelia Way; Larkspur, West side of Magnolia Avenue about 100 feet north of Madrone Avenue; Greenbrae, South side of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard at South Eliseo Drive; Kentfield, East side of College Avenue approximately 200 feet north of Kent Avenue; College of Marin, West side of College Avenue, 30 feet south of Corte Madera Creek; Terra Linda, South side of Manuel T. Freitas Parkway at Las Pavadas Avenue; Novato, West side of South Novato Boulevard at Rowland Boulevard, and Northgate Mall, West side of Las Gallinas Avenue, 400 feet north of Merrydale Road.

Tiburon Not In Agreement Over Plant

The Tiburon Sanitary District is not yet ready to agree with a recent Southern Marin Subregional Agency recommendation that local sanitary districts give up their treatment plants and pump their sewage to a plant at Point San Quentin.

Board president James Murray said that members discussed the report last night and decided they need more information on costs of alternative plans before deciding. He said that board members agreed that the consultants who drew up the report should not have indicated which sewage treatment plan they prefer.

The other alternative plan which the consultants said was less preferable was for Tiburon and Sausalito to retain their sewerage treatment plants and discharge points while other Southern Marin districts pump their sewage to Point San Quentin.

Conference Funds Still A Hot Issue

Tamalpais High School District trustees decided last night that, until guidelines on such spending are written, no major sums, only limited amounts of money will be supplied by the district treasury to trustees for attending conferences.

Left undefined was what is a large amount and what is a small amount, as trustees — who turned down a $558 request last week — approved a $151 request last night.

Their action followed two stormy sessions on the subject.

Trustees approved the request of Lotte Schiller for $151 to attend the Western Association of Year-Round Schools conference in San Diego this Saturday and Sunday. And they said a "small amount" of money will be given trustees attending the California School Board Association conference in San Francisco Nov. 29, 30 and Dec. 1.

But no other major conference requests by trustees will be approved until the guidelines are prepared by Supt. Robert D. Torrey.

The board, in a meeting which Mrs. Schiller called a debacle, last week turned down a request by trustee Frank L. Miller for $558 to attend a seminar.

Jerrold M. Ladar, board president who was absent last week, described some conference expenditures as paying for "travel and entertainment."

During both last week's and this week's discussions, trustees voiced feelings of intimidation and pressure about requesting funds to attend conferences.

Trustee Robert W. Corlett said there is about $1,500 in the board's budget for conference attendance and conference trustees wishes to attend should be kept within the budgeted amount.

Mrs. Schiller's request was approved with other "personnel actions and recommendations" on a 4-to-0 vote (Miller absent).

Tamalpais High School District Board also:

AFFIRMATIVE — Reviewed district policy for hiring more women and minority members under "affirmative action" policy and set Nov. 12 for further discussion of how to put the policy into effect.

ACCOUNTING — Requested that Larry Weseman of Main Lafrentz and Co. attend the board's Nov. 19 meeting to discuss updating district accounting system.

REDEVELOPMENT — Approved an agreement with Corte Madera extending the time for filing legal protests against the town's redevelopment agency until Jan. 20, 1974.

INSURANCE — Approved insurance to protect the district, trustees and all district employees against suits filed over "wrongful acts." Premiums of $6,452.50 provide $3 million insurance for such things as suits against trustees for hiring practices; desegregation cases and labor negotiations.

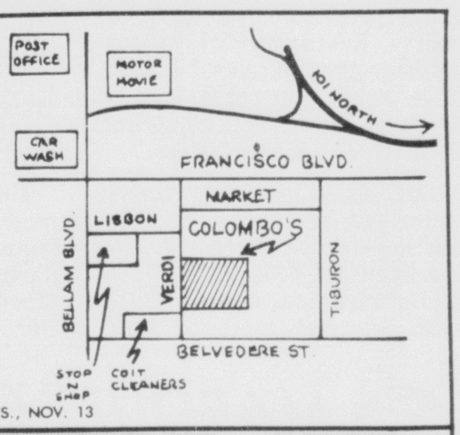

BIDS — Called for bids for placing four portable classrooms at Redwood High School for the district's continuation school.

PERSONNEL — Approved a pay scale for custodians who work evenings amounting to a $20 to $24 a month raise and approved attendance of 21 district personnel at educational conferences at a cost of $1,305.74.

CLOSED — Met in closed session to hear charges against district personnel, but took no action.

ADJOURNED — Adjourned to a special meeting at 8 p.m. Monday.

What Happens When 'Free Speech' Is Licensed

During the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, we had spasmodic proposals, from persons calling themselves "liberals," for government licensing of the press and/or a "high-calibre, strictly non-partisan commission" to monitor the newspapers.

These self-styled liberals worked out a rationale like this: The press freely criticizes the government, and demands that the government be held responsible; but nobody holds the press responsible. So the government should "even things up."

Since Richard M. Nixon became president, we have, of course, heard no such proposals from the "liberals." But we have heard the same kind of proposals from persons styling themselves "conservatives."

THE ELECTRONIC media — radio and television — are under government licensing. And the licensing board, the Federal Communications Commission, was set up as a high-calibre, strictly non-partisan commission.

The licensing system, and the FCC, came into being in the early days of radio, from necessity. Since two broadcasts on the same frequency in the same area will jam each other, it was necessary to allot frequencies to broadcast stations. This was done through licensing. The FCC was set up to do the licensing and see that each broadcaster stayed on his assigned frequency and did not exceed his allowed power output. But, like all high-calibre, strictly non-partisan government commissions, it gradually took on wider powers.

The freedom of the electronic media was supposed to be protected by the high-calibre, non-partisan nature of the FCC. Since the licensing board was non-political, broadcasters were supposed to have nothing to worry about.

SOME WHITE HOUSE memoranda made public last week by Sen. Lowell P. Weicker, Jr., R-Conn., a member of the Senate Watergate committee, show what can and does happen to freedom of expression under government licensing.

One of them, from White House special counsel Charles W. Colson, told of meeting with network officials to dissuade them from granting free air time to Democrats to reply to attacks by President Nixon. The network officials, wrote Colson, were "very much afraid of us and are trying to prove they are 'good guys.'"

Colson also wrote that he would ask Dean Burch, FCC chairman, to issue an "interpretive ruling" on the equal-time fairness doctrine "as soon as we have a majority of Republicans" on the high-calibre, non-partisan FCC.

Another memorandum, from Lawrence M. Higby to his boss, H. R. Haldeman, reported an effort to generate public attacks on Chet Huntley, NBC news commentator. He was not just out to get Huntley, though, wrote Higby: "What we are trying to do here is to tear down the institution" (of news broadcasting).

THE POWER to license is the power to control. The power to control is the power to destroy. The kind of thinking that seems to have permeated the "conservative" Republican White House was well expressed 56 years ago by a self-styled liberal named Vladimir Ilyich Ulianov, who said:

"Why should freedom of speech and freedom of the press be allowed? Why should a government that is doing what it believes to be right allow itself to be criticized? It would not allow opposition by lethal weapons. Ideas are much more fatal things than guns."

Ulianov, of course, is known to history under his alias of Lenin. One of the first acts of his Bolshevik government, after seizing power in the October Revolution of 1917, was to suppress what remnants of a free press existed in Russia.

Kissinger Launched On Most Difficult Task Of Career

WASHINGTON — The journey that Sec. of State Henry A. Kissinger is now on is surely the boldest and the most difficult he has ever undertaken. He is searching for a peaceful solution of the Middle East conflict, which is rather like the pursuit of the philosophers' stone that alchemists in the Middle Ages considered to have the power to transmute baser metals into gold.

Kissinger has won to a degree the confidence of all but the more fanatical of the Arab states. This was achieved by his marathon efforts to bring about a cease-fire that would end the slaughter.

It was the secretary's intervention that persuaded the Israelis to stop short of destroying the Egyptian III Corps with 20,000 men on the east bank of the Suez Canal. The army could have been destroyed by direct attack or by denying them food and water in the fierce heat of the desert.

This Israeli victory would have been costly to Israel as well as to Egypt. It is the denial of such a "victory," as construed in Jerusalem, that has embittered feeling among many Israelis toward the United States. But it would have foreclosed any hope of a peaceful solution beyond the confused cease-fire with its indeterminate lines.

THERE IS NO MIRACLE in the secretary's dispatch box that can bring a quick peace. He must rely on the diplomatic skill he has so often demonstrated.

By her restraint and her determination to avoid recrimination, Prime Minister Golda Meir in her Washington visit enhanced the hope for peaceful negotiation.

A lot has been written about Kissinger's tirelessness, his ability to fly around the world and arrive at a point of major conflict or negotiation in apparent good humor and prepared to use his skills unimpaired by fatigue and the jet lag. But this journey is surely a test of his capacities — four days in four Arab countries, then Iran and Pakistan, then Peking for three days and return by way of Tokyo.

WHAT HE SAID both in his "Pacem in Terris" speech and in his press conference seems to have made little impression on a people preoccupied with domestic turbulence. Put as simply as possible, he gave it as his conviction that failure of the present efforts for peace in the world — with the Middle East a vital phase of that effort — will mean a return to all-out cold war and defense budgets far greater than the present record levels.

Although some participants take this as the foreordained course, consider what it would mean in more inflation, increased taxes, the starvation of badly needed social services, the whole panoply of troubles that afflict the nation today.

Kissinger cannot look back. He is almost literally on his own. A beleaguered president whose closest allies are beginning to demand his resignation can give him little help. The odds are probably heavily against the success of his present mission.

1973, United Feature Syndicate.

ERWIN D. CANHAM: President And Press

Those of us who have been urging President Nixon to hold more press conferences were not encouraged by the last one.

The rancor evident on both sides hurt everybody.

The correspondents were eager to hurl their tough, thrusting questions at the president, and he seemed eager to show the country that the news media were out to get him. It was an affair unworthy of the civility the nation should preserve.

SOME DAY SOMEBODY will do a thorough and careful analysis of Richard Nixon's press relations, from the beginning. I believe that some bias will be discovered on the news media's side, but that overwhelmingly more straight reporting will be identified which has greatly damaged Mr. Nixon because the basic facts were damaging.

Some preliminary bits of evidence are impressive. At the commission of the Los Angeles Times, a rather severe critic of the press — Edward Jay Epstein — has made a study of Watergate and related coverage. He concludes that the press hasn't been nearly as enterprising as it is credited with being, but that its coverage has been largely accurate.

Most of the discreditable events, thus far, have turned out to be correctly reported. Much of the uncovering was done by various official agencies, not by investigative reporters. This is not to minimize the early work of the Washington Post's two diggers, who have their Pulitzer Prize to show for it.

Another frequent critic of the media, Ben Bagdikian, published in the New York Times an analysis of the president's "daily news briefing" document. Bagdikian identifies and spells out a host of inaccuracies in this sometimes 50-page document's resume of daily news and opinion.

If all the issues of this "eyes only" summary are nearly as bad as the one analyzed, it is no wonder the president has been sometimes ill informed.

A THIRD BIT of evidence is horrifying. Made public by Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., it details efforts recommended to the president and sometimes adopted by him to influence the news media. In one month in 1969, the president sent 21 separate requests to his aides urging them to take steps to counteract unfavorable publicity.

The recommendations to the president proposed, among many tough measures, Internal Revenue Service and Federal Communications Commission harassment of news enterprises and individuals. More ill-conceived advice could scarcely have been imagined.

Probably every American president in this century has been angry with the press. But most of them have realized that strong and clear policies and candid explanations of them were the best kind of press relations.

No president had an adulatory press. Always, as an institution, the news media are in an adversary role. Their job is to find out what the public needs to know in order to function as citizens. The public official strives to put his best foot forward. A vast system of press agentry has grown up.

Conversely, the electronic press has developed instant emotional power far greater in its impact than newspapers usually have.

Yet the president can command prime television and radio time whenever he wants it, can dominate the headlines with strong, impelling news.

Franklin Roosevelt, who faced the hostility of a majority of the country's editorial pages, more than held his own on the front pages.

TO A PRESIDENT with sensitive understanding of the nation's needs and a frank, skillful presentation of his policies, the media of today offer tremendous opportunity. His opponents have a hard time catching up.

But today, with so many presidential shifts and changes, so many unexplained facts and episodes, so much criminality lurking near at hand (a long list of indicted or soon-to-be-indicted associates), there is little to do except ride out the storm. Even now, however, frankness and integrity, and sometimes humility and admission of mistakes, could do a great deal.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Why Not Go All-Out In Recycling Effort?

Regarding the recent story of the local high school students' problems of not being able to collect enough papers and magazines for recycling — I find it hard to understand why unless the laws, lack of ambition, or just lack of sportsmanship have taken over.

During my high school days of World War II in Ohio all of us students banded together for the war effort to collect newspapers, magazines, and flattened tin cans and any iron we could find.

Almost every class from the youngest to the senior groups pulled everything from wagons to driving a car or truck. Even our parents helped as we went house-to-house, business-to-business, and even dump-to-dump for the metal.

There was competition between groups, grades and schools from the surrounding area to see who could collect the most, and a dance usually was the prize — maybe dull by today's standards but then it was a fierce competition. And everyone had a spirit of togetherness and really feeling he was doing something for the war effort and for each other.

Why shouldn't today's students follow our campaign? We sure had a ball after school and week ends and the public response was great and togetherness was "in" then. Maybe you students can bring it back again.

Impeachment Resolution Passage Needed

We witnessed last week end an appalling series of events: the president's refusal to obey a federal court order; the president's violation of his pledge of complete independence for the special prosecutor, Archibald Cox;the firing of the special prosecutor; the forced resignation of Attorney General Richardson and firing of Deputy Attorney General Ruckelshaus; the FBI sealing the special prosecutor's office.

Even though subsequently the president's attorneys have said that the president will submit the nine tapes to Judge Sirica, the president's lack of judgment is unnerving to all of us.

We need passage of an impeachment resolution by the House . . .

ADA and ACLU are both undertaking nationwide campaigns for impeachment. Let each of us do our part.

Dependence On Foreign Oil Not Inevitable

I read with interest the fine article on Saudi Arabia (Oct. 27). However I must take exception to Mr. Cooley's mention (without any qualifications) that we will be importing 50 per cent of their oil by 1985.

The way Mr. Cooley seems to view it, it is inevitable. We should resign ourselves to the consumption of more and more oil, and we must eventually bow to blackmail from countries as we become increasingly dependent on their oil supplies. This need not be the case.

In fact what we should and must do is look positively for alternatives to oil as a power source. Methane gas, "wind power", solar energy are but a few possibilities that show promise.

Much more needs to be done in the area of conservation. Expansion and use of rapid transit systems will conserve energy and produce less pollution. We must change many of our ways of thinking, and do it in the face of pressure from TV ads to "buy, consume, waste, and buy again."

Do we have to drive one block to the store to get a loaf of bread? Who really needs an electric toothbrush?

Confusion Over How Many People In San Rafael

As an assignment for my third grade class I had them find out the population of San Rafael.

Four children called the city hall and all four received different answers ranging from 39,722 to 45,000.

For our information can you tell us the population of San Rafael?

(San Rafael's population in the 1970 federal census was 38,493. That has since been increased by the Terra Linda annexation plus other increases. The latest estimate by the California Department of Finance, in July of this year, puts the city's population at 43,700. — Editor)

Bulldogs' Defense Deserves Credit, Too

I would like to make a few comments on sports writer Lew Coddington's reporting of the San Rafael vs. Drake football game appearing in the I-J on Oct. 27. It appears that Coddington sees only the offensive team. He did a good job of reporting the great efforts of the offensive team but what about the defensive team?

This was the first loss of the year for Drake and they were held to one touchdown. I think the Bulldogs' defense was as outstanding as the offense. The defensive team were real "Bulldogs". Drake gained only 38 yards rushing, had three passes intercepted, one fumble recovered by the defense. Drake had only 18 rushing plays compared to 48 rushing plays by San Rafael and Drake completed only 7 of 28 passes . . .

How about giving the defense a few words in your next story, if the defense is deserving of it? There was not one word in Coddington's story about the defense. Defensive players like to receive credit for their hard work also.

The Man Who Lost The Prizes Of His Great Tape Collection

WASHINGTON — "Dick, for heaven's sake, what are you doing in those closets?"

"Dammit, Pat, I'm looking for my tapes."

"There they are."

"No, not those, I'm missing two of my favorites — John Mitchell's 'Watergate Concerto' and John Dean's 'Music to Be Impeached By.' They must be here somewhere."

"You're making a mess of everything, Dick. Why are they so important right now?"

"I promised them to Johnny Sirica and he's waiting downstairs. Where the heck could they have gone?"

"DIDN'T YOU LOAN a bunch of tapes to Bob Haldeman a few months ago?"

"By gad, I did. I'll call him . . . Bob, this is Dick Nixon. Remember those tapes I loaned you awhile back? Did you return all of them to me? Yes, I've got the Magruder 'Overture to Perjury' and Colson's 'Executive Clemency Symphony in D Minor.' I'm missing the 'Watergate Concerto' and 'Music to Be Impeached By.' . . . You didn't take them? Well, look around the house just in case . . . Thanks . . ."

"Dick, maybe Tricia or Julie borrowed them."

"Tricia, Julie, come in here right away. Did either one of you take any of my tapes?"

"No, Daddy. The last one I borrowed was the 'Peace With Honor Suite for Drums and Cymbals.'"

"I didn't touch them, Daddy. I remember David mentioning to me that you have the best tape collection of anyone in America. He said someday he hoped to afford equipment for his tapes like you have."

"GET THE SERVANTS in here, Pat. I've got to get to the bottom of this."

"Gracious, Dick, you seem to be making such a fuss over two tapes when you have literally hundreds. Why don't you just give Johnny Sirica two other tapes from your collection?"

"I promised him these two, Pat. You know Sirica. If you promise him something and give him something else, he gets mad."

"Well, let's think for a moment. Who else borrowed your tapes besides Bob Haldeman?"

"There's at least a half-dozen people who heard them at one time or another. But I'm fairly certain I never loaned them the John Mitchell or John Dean tapes. They were my particular favorites. You can't believe the sound quality I produced from them. You can hear every note."

"WHY DON'T YOU TELL Johnny Sirica that you lost them?"

"I thought of that. But he won't believe me. He'll think I don't want to give him the tapes. And then he'll get mad and we'll only have a big fight and I'll lose my cool."

"Well, I don't see what else you can do, Dick. You can't keep him waiting downstairs all day."

"Wait a minute. I just thought of something. I'll tell him the tapes don't exist. I'll tell him I never had them in the first place. I can't loan him the tapes if I don't have them, can I?"

"What will you give him instead?"

"Buzhardt's 'Fantasia in A Major.'"

'P.E.' Course With Meaning Might End Long Dispute

By EARL G. WATERS

What could be the beginning of the end of the controversy over compulsory physical education is contained in the philosophy of Dr. Mary Conroy.

Observes Dr. Conroy, a professor at Los Angeles State College, "Students learn quickly in classes where what they are taught is a means to an end, not an end in itself."

THAT THERE IS something wrong with physical education as it exists in most public schools is evident from the continuing attacks upon it as a compulsory program. No less formidable person that the late state Sen. George Miller Jr., himself an outstanding athlete and PE instructor, waged an all-out battle to eliminate mandatory PE.

But the strongly organized lobby of "P.E." teachers gained an unsatisfactory compromise which merely removed mandatory daily classes but retained the requirement that all students spend a minimum of 400 minutes each 10 days. That change has had little effect upon "P.E." programs or the attitude of high school students who have repeatedly expressed their opposition before the State Board of Education. These students ask only that such courses be elective. "Let them sell their courses and compete for enrollment with other electives," they say.

Their theory is that making "P.E." elective will force the teachers to develop meaningful programs which will attract enrollment. They point to Oregon where they say that, following elimination of compulsory "P.E.", teachers have improved courses and the classes have regained their status with enthusiastic students.

Apparently this argument has gained support, for the governor recently signed legislation by Assemblyman Ken Cory, D-Anaheim, eliminating mandatory "P.E." in the community colleges.

DR. CONROY teaches personal defense for women. She is author of a book on the subject. She believes it is something which should be taught to every high school girl.

Her course starts with the non-physical aspects of personal defense, the recognition of dangerous situations and how to avoid them. It develops the means to escape danger short of physical and leads into physical defenses not designed to seriously injure the assailant.

The key to her approach is "teaching something that is relevant and that they feel will be important to them for the rest of their lives." If all "P.E." courses did that, the question of compulsory physical education would not be an issue.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Nov. 6, 1963

A fierce rainstorm, with wind gusts up to 111 miles per hour, caused power failures, slides, and falling trees throughout Marin.

Rep. John F. Shelley was elected mayor of San Francisco, the first Democrat to win that office in 55 years.

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 6, 1953

William H. Thomas, general manager of McNear's brickyard in San Rafael, was named to the Marin County Board of Supervisors to succeed the late George Whiteley by Gov. Goodwin J. Knight.

Two iron workers were killed when a steel scaffolding fell from under the Golden Gate Bridge, on which structural repairs were under way to strengthen it against future high winds.

COUNTRY PARSON

"It's likely a fellow can figure out better advice for himself than most of us can give him."

I-J REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By FRANK FARRARA

Guest Column From Moanin' Sam; It's 'The City Council Blues'

Things were quiet at the Novato office of the Independent-Journal last Monday until Moanin' Sam, a blues-playing guitar player, rambled in with a sheet of paper in his hand.

"I have a tune here I think you might want to print," he said.

"We don't usually print songs, but is there some local news angle to it?" we asked.

"Oh yeah," Sam said. "I've been thinking there have been blues songs about everything, cotton fields, wrecks on the highway, lost love and bad weather, but I haven't heard anything about local government. You know, politics could use a little soul."

WITH THAT, Sam handed over his song, "The City Council Blues," which goes something like this:

Been sitting here all evening
and the chairs are hard,
Yeah, sitting here all evening
and the chairs are hard,
Never heard so much talking in one night before.

I came in at eight and now its half-past twelve,
Oh, I came in at eight and now its half past twelve.

I wonder when they'll get around to me.

I've been here so long I forgot what I came in for;
Yes, I've been here so long I forgot what I came in for;
I'm tired of hearing the same old jive all night.

All I want is a stop sign near the corner store;
Mmm, all I want is a stop sign near the corner store;
Nearly lost my life there to a speeding car.

All this talk of zoning will drive me out the door,
Yeah, all this talk of zoning will drive me out the door;
But I can't go until I get that stop sign at the corner store.

Now they're talking traffic safety, it can't be too long;
Yeah, they're talking traffic safety, it can't be too long.
But what's that word they're saying, No, it just can't be!

The mayor called adjournment before they got to me;
Oooh, the mayor called adjournment before they got to me.
I think I'll just go down to that corner and let that speeding car hit me.

Questions Of Economics Arise Over Strawberry Housing Plan

The proposed Strawberry community plan's provision for low-cost and moderate-cost housing was the only proposal to generate controversy last night as the Strawberry Area Community Council met to consider the plan.

Building the amount of such lower-priced housing called for in the plan will be difficult due to economic pressures, Marin County Planning Director Werner von Gundell and consultant Steven E. Chaum conceded under questioning from the audience.

Money from federal and state programs would be needed to induce developers to provide the new units, said Von Gundell. Even so, the area might have to settle for more moderate and less low-cost housing than the plan specifies, Chaum said.

The remarks were made before an audience of about 30 persons at the Strawberry Recreation Center. The plan, which takes in the Strawberry, Eagle Rock, Bel Air and the unincorporated sections of Alto, will be presented to the Marin County Planning Commission Nov. 26.

It provides for fewer low-cost and moderate-cost units than is recommended by the county planning department for Marin as a whole. High development costs in the area are cited as the reason.

"We can look at (the plan's housing) goals in two ways," said Von Gundell, "as a specific target, or as a general direction. If we look at it as a target, I do not see any way we can attain it."

Provisions for open space, growth rate, schools, public facilities, transportation and implementation were heard without controversy.

The plan projects a growth rate of about three per cent annually until the area grows from its current 2,500 dwelling units to about 4,000. Most of this consists of development already approved, but not constructed.

The Strawberry Area Community Council also:

COUNCIL — Elected Joanne Monks, Dennis Klein, Betty Doss, Martin Rosse, Sandra Dorsaneo, Ralph Phillips and Ed Sotello to one-year terms as council members.

REPORT — Heard a report from Rosse and Klein, members of the Ring Mountain Advisory Committee, which recommended preservation of 640 acres at the crest of that mountain separating Corte Madera from Tiburon and Strawberry as open space. The 15-member committee, consisting of persons from the three communities, was appointed by the board of supervisors.

Petaluma Council Rapped Over Subdivision Case

Disgruntled Petalumans accused the city council last night of sabotaging their legal efforts to halt a controversial subdivision.

The Sunnyslope-I Street Improvement Committee, through attorney Richard R. Day, said the council undermined their efforts to gain an election on zoning granted to Arthur Condiotti for a subdivision.

The council had called a special election on the subdivision question, but owners of the property received a superior court order halting any balloting.

Day said City Atty. Edouard E. Robert — on orders of the council — failed to represent citizens at the injunction hearing and presented no evidence or testimony on why an election should be held.

"The city council should have had the courage to stop the ballot issue in the beginning, but instead you just pretended you wanted it and didn't fight for it," Day said. "This looks like a treasonous act by the city council."

Petitions with more than 2,400 signatures urged the special election. Residents complained the proposed subdivision on I Street Extension at Sunnyslope Road would cause increased traffic and drainage problems in the area.

"The city acted hand-in-hand with the developer," Day charged. "More than 2,400 people thought the city attorney would represent them, but the city council silenced him and allowed their rights to be denied."

The councilmen seemed disturbed by Day's remarks, but said they would withhold comment since the citizens's committee plans to appeal the superior court decision.

The Petaluma City Council Also:

LIBRARY — Authorized the library board to hire an architect to prepare preliminary plans for a new library building and set a meeting for Nov. 27 at 7:30 p.m. to consider calling a library bond election for March.

CROSSING GUARDS — Was asked by the Petaluma School District to assume cost of crossing guards at McDowell School and Kenilworth Junior High School and replied a special session will be held on the question when the public works department completes a study on the safest routes to schools.

CARS — Approved purchase of two Ford Pintos from Sanderson Ford Co. at a cost of $4,939 for use by the building department.

WILL — Was told by City Mgr. Robert H. Meyer that the estate of the late Tillie Anna Prince may bring the city between $130,000 and $160,000 toward development of a park to be named for the Prince family.

STREET WORK — Accepted as complete the widening of Washington Street from Kentucky to Keokuk Streets. Total cost was $99,746.

SPRINKLERS — Introduced an ordinance requiring new commercial buildings to install automatic sprinkler systems for better fire safety.

MEETING — Adjourned to the next regular meeting on Nov. 19 at 7:30 p.m. at city hall.

Timber Purchase One Of Largest

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Crown Zellerbach Corp. has purchased a Louisiana lumber company and more than 200,000 acres of pine timberland for $185 million in one of the largest such transactions in history.

The San Francisco-based timber products company said yesterday it made the successful joint bid with the Southern Timber Trust for the Tremont Lumber Co., Joyce, La., and the timberland in northwestern Louisiana. The agreement provides that Crown Zellerbach and the Timber Trust form a jointly owned company to operate the timberlands, two lumber mills and a plywood plant.

Tremont's annual sales are about $20 million.

Deadline Is Set For Scholarships

I-J Special Report

SACRAMENTO — Deadline for students applying for California scholarships available is Nov. 20, Arthur S. Marmaduke, director of the state Scholarship and Loan Commission, reminded yesterday.

The financial assistance is offered for college studies, to up to 14,000 high school seniors and college students with B average or higher. Applications are available through school offices, or the commission at 1410 Fifth Street, Sacramento 95814.

Energy Body Decides To Seek Advice

Larkspur's new energy conservation committee has decided to seek advice from public utility representatives before outlining specific programs for saving fuel.

According to Fire Chief William C. Shurtz, city staff representative on the committee, the group expects to begin detailing specific programs late this month or in early December.

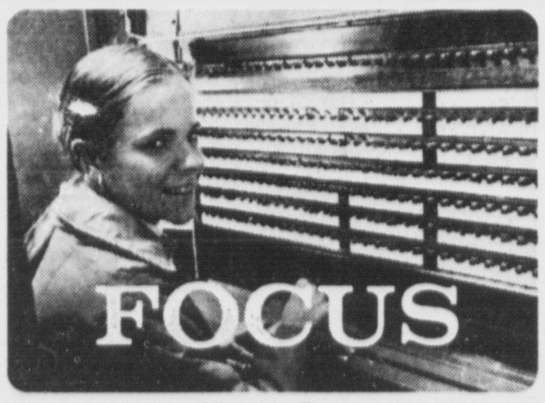

He said representatives of Pacific Gas and Electric Co. will also be invited to attend the Larkspur Chamber of Commerce meeting Dec. 4 to discuss the energy crisis.

The committee originally was proposed by Larkspur City Councilman William G. Fleckles, who is the committee chairman. Other members are Shurtz, Councilman Neil R. Brixon, Henry Brocco, owner of the Greenbrae Pharmacy, and Edward C. Saunders, manager of the Larkspur branch of Bank of America.

Two Sisters Will Not Be Charged

Two sisters arrested on suspicion of burglarizing a Kentfield home will not be charged, according to the Marin District Attorney's office.

Anita Louis E. Shorter, 19, of San Francisco, and 18-year-old Reneddia Jones, of Marin City, were arrested near a house on Goodhill Road Oct. 2. The house had been broken into, according to sheriff's deputies.

Election Day

Presidential and congressional elections are always held on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in November. This being an odd-numbered year, there are no federal elections today. However, a number of states and localities are holding elections. Among them are gubernatorial races in Virginia and New Jersey, and mayoral races in New York and Detroit. Local issues predominate, but as usual, political observers are likely to scan the results in search of national trends, especially in New Jersey, where voters face a clear-cut ideological choice. "Conservative" Republican Charles Sandman, Jr., faces "liberal" Democrat Brendan Byrne.

DO YOU KNOW — Which constitutional amendment gave the vote to 18-year-olds?

MONDAY'S ANSWER — John Love is the President's energy adviser.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Hardening Of Arteries Causes Ulcers On Legs, Feet Of Aged

Ulcers on a leg or foot of an elderly person usually are caused by hardening of the arteries, rather than by a varicose vein. These lesions are stubborn and heal slowly because they lack blood. Since cure cannot be rushed, the best advise is to be patient and persistent.

One of our readers described his long siege with a painful foot (ischemic) ulcer. Initially, he was given remedies to dilate the blood vessels. But the sore remained unchanged. He was desperate because these lesions can be painful. His doctor injected Novocain into the nerve of the foot but, at best, relief of pain was temporary.

WHEN THESE procedures failed, he was hospitalized and a special dye was injected into the circulation to visualize the arteries of the leg under X-ray. An obstruction was found in the thigh and an operation was advised to bypass the obstructed segment with a graft. This helped, but after four months, the pain returned and the skin began to darken. Finally, certain nerves in the back were severed to improve the circulation of the entire leg. The extremity became warmer and the ulcer healed gradually in the ensuing three years. Apparently, combining the artery bypass and nerve operation did the trick.

THE SAME operation had to be done on the other side when the top of a bunion was removed and the incision failed to heal. This man's severe hardening of the arteries was treated with the usual remedies and modern operations. The life and death of the tissues in his feet were in a delicate balance for several years and any injury was capable of upsetting the balance on the bloodless side.

Men and women with poor circulation should treat their extremities with gentle care. It is easier and safer to avoid the incidents that produce ischemic ulcers, including bruises, cuts, blisters, burns, and other accidents to the feet. A minor injury, small cut, or slight infection may upset the circulatory balance and lead to stubborn ulcers or gangrene.

SPINAL TAP

K. T. writes: Is a spinal tap an ordinary procedure for a blood infection?

REPLY

Only for certain types of infections, such as syphilis, meningitis, or encephalitis. This is done to determine whether the causative organism has attacked the brain or spinal cord. In the circumstances, a change in treatment would be necessary.

Today is Tuesday, Nov. 6, the 310th day of 1973 with 55 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning star is Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Venus, Mars and Jupiter.

American band leader John Philip Sousa was born Nov. 6, 1854.

On this day in history:

In 1860, Abraham Lincoln was elected as the 16th president of the United States.

In 1869, in the first formal intercollegiate football game, Rutgers beat Princeton, 6-4.

In 1953, U.S. Attorney General Herbert Brownell charged that President Harry Truman named Harry Dexter White head of the International Monetary Fund, knowing White was a "Russian spy."

In 1968, Richard Milhouse Nixon was elected as 37th president of the United States, defeating Democrat Hubert Humphrey.

A thought for the day: Abraham Lincoln said: "The ballot is stronger than the bullet."

BART Obtains Federal Grant

The grant will cover 80 percent of the cost of the cars. The additional rolling stock will bring the system's total cars to 450, the announcement said.

The funds were granted by the Urban Mass Transportation Administration.

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

South Is Guilty Of Major Crime—Rushing Into Action

The songwriter may say that the best things in life are free, but the cynic has his own opinion on such matters. He will tell you that the free things are sometimes the most expensive. This was certainly the case with a bridge hand that was the talk of the New York bridge clubs some years ago.

GOOD BIDDING

The bidding was excellent. If the play had been up to the same standard, we would have only to award a few medals and then go on to something else. But the play of this hand would never earn a medal.

South saw that the opening lead gave him a "free" finesse. Without stopping to think about the hand as a whole, South called for a low club from the dummy.

COSTLY MANEUVER

This maneuver cost him the grand slam — a matter of more than 2,000 points. Enough to please even the sourest of cynics.

South won the first trick with the jack of clubs and led out dummy's top trumps. He then had to get to his own hand to continue the task of drawing trumps.

The only chance was to cash two top diamonds and then ruff a diamond. If this plan worked, therefore, South would have to waste a top diamond in return for the free club trick.

DIDN'T WORK

As luck would have it, the plan didn't work. West ruffed the second diamond, defeating the grand slam. And South became famous for a time as the player who started a hand with 13 sure tricks, tried for 14 and wound up with only 12.

The point was that South had to save his king of clubs as the entry to his hand. The correct play is to win the first trick with dummy's ace of clubs, take dummy's top trumps and then lead a club to the king in order to draw the rest of the trumps. Then South could get rid of a club and a heart on dummy's extra top diamonds.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner opens with a forcing bid of two hearts, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - K J 7
♥ - J 5
♦ - 8 7
♣ - Q J 10 9 8 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two no-trump.

Some experts might bid three clubs, but this is a doubtful course with a topless suit when you must raise the level of bidding. Most experts want a better suit or more top cards to raise the level.

Ban On Parking To Be Considered

An ordinance prohibiting parking on one side of streets in the Winship Park area of Ross will be considered for adoption at the regular meeting of the Ross Town Council at 8 p.m. Thursday in town hall.

A second ordinance prohibiting parking in other parts of town will be introduced. The ordinances are designed to facilitate the passage of emergency vehicles on narrow streets.

Animal Home Is Due For Council Review

Animal-lover Helen Galantiere's shelter for animals at her Larkspur home will be before the Larkspur City Council when it meets at 8 p.m. Wednesday in city hall.

Mrs. Galantiere has amitted exceeding the city ordinance which prohibits more than two dogs and two cats at any residence. But she maintains that she keeps most of the animals only temporarily until she can find homes for them.

The council is to determine if the foster home for pets is a public nuisance and should be abated.

The council will also consider an ordinance change to require council review of all large commercial projects such as the proposed Larkspur regional shopping center. Presently, such projects which meet all zoning requirements come before the council only on appeal of a planning commission ruling.

Extension of the building moratorium on land zoned R-3 west of Magnolia Avenue with slope of 10 per cent or more will also be considered.

Inmate Is Found Hanging In Cell

A San Quentin inmate was found hanging in his cell last night, the Marin County coroner's office reported today.

John Guillory, 32, of San Francisco, apparently hanged himself with an electrical cord and strips torn from bedding. He was alone in a segregation cell in B section. The body was discovered at 9:55 p.m.

Prison spokesmen said they were attempting to locate the dead man's father, Frank Guillory, in San Francisco, but had been unable to reach him by midmorning.

Guillory was serving a sentence of five years to life for second degree burglary.

The body was taken to Daphne's Funeral of Marin pending funeral arrangements.

Jackson, Javits Get High Rating From Senate Aides

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Henry (Scoop) Jackson, D-Wash., was rated "most effective" senator and New York Republican Jacob Javits the "brightest" in a survey of Senate legislative assistants on the effectiveness, intelligence and integrity of the lawmakers released yesterday.

The telephone survey by the Ralph Nader-backed Capitol Hill News Service was unscientific but revealing in what the Senate aides thought about their bosses.

The aides were not allowed to rate the senator they work for, but could name more than one senator in each positive and negative category. Seventy-five of the 100 Senate aides participated — 42 from Democratic offices, 33 from Republican ones.

Jackson, who sought the 1972 Democratic presidential nomination, received 24 mentions for most effective.

He's the most effective in rallying legislation, "one aide said of Jackson. "I'm convinced he gets people to be cosponsors of his bills before they know what they're co-sponsoring." Jackson is chairman of the Interior Committee.

Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W. Va., was chosen as the "hardest working" and Philip Hart, D-Mich., as having the "most integrity."

Sens. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, William Scott, R-Va., and Vance Hartke, D-Ind., were rated "least effective." Scott was voted "least right," Hartke as having "least integrity" and seven others tied for first as "least hard-working."

Javits and Sen. Warren Magnuson, D-Wash., tied for second as most effective with 13 mentions, and Javits was mentioned 28 times as the brightest.

Sens. Hart, Howard Baker, R-Tenn., James Buckley, R-N.Y., J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., Jackson, William Proxmire, D-Wis., John Stennis, D-Miss., and Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., received three or more mentions as brightest.

In the "hardest working" category, the winner was Democratic Whip Robert Byrd, who received 25 mentions. Proxmire got 19 mentions.

Of 26 other senators named in this category, only Buckley, Humphrey, Javits, Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., John McClellan, D-Ark., and Walter Mondale D-Minn., received three or more mentions.

Kennedy, mentioned as a probable Democratic presidential candidate in 1976, received about an equal number of votes in both hardest and least hard-working categories.

Scott of Virginia was cited most as least bright, receiving 14 mentions. Of 38 others in this category, only Sens. Carl Curtis, R-Neb., Paul Fannin, R-Ariz., Edward Gurney, R-Fla., Hartke, Roman Hruska, R-Neb., Lee Metcalf, D-Mont., and John Tunney, D-Calif., received three or more mentions.

Thirty other senators fell in the least effective category, with Wallace Bennett, R-Utah, Quentin Burdick, D-N.D., Carl Curtis, R-Neb., Jesse Helms, R-N.C., Joseph Montoya, D-N.M., and John Tunney D-Calif., leading.

Health Care In The US Criticized

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The former US surgeon general charged yesterday that "the Watergate mentality clearly has permeated the federal health apparatus."

Addressing the American Public Health Association convention, Dr. Jesse L. Steinfeld, US surgeon general until last January, said: "The American people should know that health programs and priorities are being interpreted not by career health professionals but by men primarily concerned with politics.

"The programs are supported or discarded, not in relationship to the long range health value, but in relation to their immediate political value."

"As of now, the Watergate mentality clearly has permeated the federal health apparatus," Steinfeld said.

Steinfeld addressed the convention after Caspar W. Weinberger, Health, Education, and Welfare secretary, reported that President Nixon now is considering a comprehensive health insurance plan.

Weinberger told the convention the plan "will provide health insurance to all American citizens without bankrupting the federal budget and without placing excessive controls on the practice of medicine."

Weinberger said he could not reveal details of the HEW-drafted plan before the President's final decisions.

Steinfeld urged passage of the Kennedy national health insurance bill — opposed by the administration — and said "patching the old system with new dollars simply will not solve the problems."

"Major decisions on health are being made by anonymous people in the Office of Management and Budget, and there is not a single health professional in that office," he said.

Steinfeld, 46, former University of Southern California medical professor, served as surgeon general for three years. His resignation, one of those requested after Nixon's 1972 reelection, was accepted. The office of surgeon general has been vacant since Steinfeld left last January.

Steinfeld now heads the Mayo Clinic's department of oncology-tumor study at Rochester, Minn.

He said the United States ranks first in annual health costs per citizen.

"Something is very wrong," he declared.

"What we have is high-priced chaos. Health care in the United States is a marvel of high cost and inefficiency," he said.

He contended that US physicians are as intelligent, dedicated, and hard working as physicians anywhere in the world. He said the fault is not theirs but rather "it is the system — or rather the lack of system."

'We Believe,' Says Greene As 'Skins Fall

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Joe Greene feels two words sum up the Pittsburgh defense.

"We believe," Greene said last night after the Steelers held off the Washington Redskins 21-16 in their nationallytelevised game.

"We believe in ourselves. We honestly feel no one can score on us. We felt that way in the end, even when they were close. We just felt they wouldn't score on us."

The "close" part came in the final five minutes when the Redskins marched to the Steelers' 17-yard line. Terry Hanratty had thrown touchdown passes of seven yards to Preston Pearson and 24 to Ron Shanklin before leaving with bruised ribs. Joe Gilliam then threw a 46-yard TD pass to Barry Pearson in the final quarter for the deciding score.

Washington quarterback Bill Kilmer threw to Larry Brown at the goal line for what seemed like the go-ahead score. But Mike Wagner slapped the ball into the air, Glen Edwards intercepted and Greene, Pittsburgh's all-pro defensive tackle, fell on the ball at the seven when Edwards fumbled.

"We had the game won and we almost let it get away," Greene said. "I think it was a little show biz on our part. We made it a little exciting. I couldn't really believe that they scored that first touchdown against us," he said referring to an earlier Kilmer TD pass to Brown. "I don't believe anyone can score on us."

Hanratty was forced out of the game with a recurring rib injury when he fell on a fumble on his own two-yard line and then was pounced upon by two Redskins.

"I hurt the ribs in the first quarter when I got rapped," Hanratty said. "When they fell on me after that fumble there was no way I could go on. I hadn't taken any medication for it—I just bite silver bullets," he said with a half-grin.

Gilliam, just activated this week after regular quarterback Terry Bradshaw suffered a shoulder separation, didn't show any fear of the Washington defense as he came out throwing. He hit on only three of 10 passes but his pass to Barry Pearson streaking over the middle was enough to put the game out of reach.

"I knew I could get the job done," said Gilliam, one of the two black quarterbacks in the National Football League. "I've been with this team for two years and I feel I know what I'm doing. I have confidence in myself and I think the players have confidence in me."

Washington coach George Allen, who saw his club drop to 5-3 and into a tie for first in the National Football Conference East, felt his club should have won.

"I thought we were going to pull it out," a sullen Allen said. "Larry Brown had that pass in his hands and it was just knocked out at the last second. We lost to a good football team but we beat ourselves. We just made too many mistakes. It was even more heartbreaking because it knocked us out of first."

Washington threatened often but the Pittsburgh defense stiffened when it had to and the Redskins had to settle for three Curt Knight field goals in the first three periods.

Well-Deserved Place In USF Hall Of Fame

"Well, it makes me feel older. I always thought a hall of fame was for old people." So said 38-year-old Robert A. Braghetta of Ross about being named to the University of San Francisco Athletic Hall of Fame.

"It came as a surprise when I found about it, but it is a nice honor," he said. A goalie for the USF soccer team in the mid-fifties, Braghetta said he actually found out about being one of nine to be inducted into the hall from friends who saw a story about it in an alumni magazine. "The official word came about two weeks later," said Braghetta. "I guess there was just a mixup in communication."

THE NINE FORMER USF stars, including Golden State Warrior Joe Ellis, will be inducted at the Father Hub Flynn dinner on the evening of Nov. 16. The others are basketballer Russell J. Gumina, a teammate of Ellis; Blase (Miatovich) Mathews and Albert H. Braga, football players who played together in the 1939 East-West Shrine game; 1930's sprinters Fred E. Walts and Lester O. Wisler, who helped set a world record relay mark in their day; Paul E. Schramka, captain of the 1948 baseball team, and the late Frank Zanazzi, to be posthumously honored for his work in organizing soccer at the university.

Braghetta was a founder of the Marin Youth Soccer Association and is chairman of the Ross Recreation Department. He was instrumental in getting two major intercollegiate soccer matches at San Rafael High School's field, University of St. Louis vs. USF in 1972 and UCLA vs. USF last month.

A GRADUATE OF St. Ignatius High in San Francisco, Braghetta earned all-city honors in baseball, soccer and basketball and won himself a basketball scholarship to USF. A 5-foot-11 guard, Bob was captain on the Dons' frosh team for the 1953-53 season, the year Bill Russell started getting national headlines as a sophomore center and USF started off on a 60-game winning streak.

"The last month of soccer overlapped with the first month of basketball so I had quite a problem," he said. He chose soccer and gave up basketball. However, he was able to play baseball. He was an outfielder, but because of injuries to the Dons' pitching staff, was switched to a hurler and wound up with a 9-2 win-loss record. He was captain of the USF baseball team in 1957.

HE CAPTAINED the Dons' soccer team in 1956-57 and was nominated for All-America honors. A captain in three sports, leadership was a quality for which Braghetta was not lacking.

After his graduation from USF in 1957, Braghetta taught business courses at Polytechnic High in S.F., but returned to USF in his spare time to coach freshman baseball in 1958 and varsity soccer in 1961, helping the Dons get all the way to the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) quarter-finals before losing to University of St. Louis, 1-0.

Braghetta played a lot of semi-pro soccer and was an alternate on the 1961 U.S. team which tried to qualify for the World Cup matches. Two years ago, he was named to the California State Soccer Hall of Fame for his play as a goalie on a San Francisco semi-pro team for 10 years.

BRAGHETTA ENTERED the stock brokerage business in 1965 as a salesman for the Henry F. Swift Co. in San Francisco and three years later became a partner in the firm. Swift, an ideal firm name for such a fast mover as Braghetta.

Bob, as you can see, is well qualified for USF's Hall.

The induction dinner will be in the main lounge of the USF University Center, a social session beginning at 6 p.m. and dinner at 8. Reservations, at $7, may be made through the USF alumni office.

JOHN, COACH AGREE

Brodie Way Off Passing Target

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — San Francisco 49er coach Dick Nolan and quarterback John Brodie agree that the veteran signal-caller was way off target last Sunday, but Nolan declined to say who would start Sunday's game at Washington.

The 49ers dropped a 30-20 decision at Detroit to fall into last in the National Football Conference Western Division with a 3-5 record.

Nolan agreed Brodie, who was intercepted a club record six times, had a bad day but said "I'll announce the starting quarterback Thursday, as usual."

"Sure, I expect to use Steve (Spurrier) and Joe (Reed) in the remaining games. But I'll use John, too. I'm always trying to win, every time we play. We have six games to go and we're three out of the lead. You never know what's going to happen. Two weeks ago the Rams were undefeated, now they have two losses.

Nolan conceded the halfdozen interceptions were what killed the 49ers since they came "either when we were driving toward a score or were backed up in our territory."

Nolan expects stars Jim Johnson and Gene Washington finally to be 100 per cent recovered from their ailments and hopes linebacker Skip Vanderbundt will be able to play after being out for several weeks with a leg muscle pull.

UCLA Embroiled In Kick Furor

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The UCLA Bruins lead the nation in scoring, averaging 46.7 points a game, but one point they didn't score is the controversial subject at the UCLA campus.

Efren Herrera, UCLA's senior soccer-style kicking specialist, said he missed the extra point kick on purpose after the last score of Saturday's 62-13 rout of Washington to show his anger for not being allowed to kick a third-quarter field goal.

Coach Pepper Rodgers said yesterday that Herrera's future on the UCLA team is up to his teammates.

"I told him I would have an answer for him later as for his situation on the team," Rodgers said. "I want him to sit down and talk with his classmates. "He apologized to me but it's a matter of whether Efren can regain the confidence of his teammates. It's hard to ignore that a kick was deliberately missed."

The Bruins, leading 35-13, had driven to the Washington 23 when on fourth down they ran instead of calling upon Herrera, the No. 2 all-time scorer at UCLA who last week was listed by Rodgers as among his players deserving national honors.

In the locker room Saturday, Herrera's eyes were misty as he said, "I've tried eight field goals this year. That's ridiculous . . . they don't care about me. I want to feel a part of the team but when they went for it on fourth-and-two, they cut me out of it."

Raider-Steeler Sellout On TV

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Oakland Raiders-Pittsburgh Steelers game will be on local television Sunday—and not just once in a while.

The Raiders announced yesterday that they had sold all remaining tickets to their Coliseum game with Pittsburgh in a game many think will be repeated in the American Football Conference Playoffs.

Since San Francisco is at Washington, there will be enough time for fans to view both contests. The Raiders-Steelers game will be on NBC, Channel 4 at 1 p.m. and the Redskins-49ers game on CBS, Channel 5 at 10 a.m.

Last Sunday, when the Raiders-New York Giants game was also a sellout, CBS-TV tried to televise that game and the 49ers game at once. But since the Raiders flattened the Giants 42-0 while Detroit beat the 49ers in a 30-20 thriller, most of the televised action was from Detroit.

CBS-TV in San Francisco reported it received 380 complaints and 5 compliments for its efforts.

Oakland Coliseum groundskeepers hope the turf covering the baseball infield will take hold by Sunday. Against the Giants, the turf did not take root and long divots were dug up constantly.

Every break in the action saw groundskeepers run out on the field and stomp down on the new turf.

World Open Has Thing To Prove

PINEHURST, N.C. (UPI) — The first World Open golf tournament gets underway at Pinehurst Country Club this week with its backers hoping to prove that by being the richest, biggest and longest event on the Professional Golfers Association circuit a tournament can succeed even when shunned by some of the game's hottest players.

The tournament offers a record purse of $500,000; has a record 356 entries; and goes for 144 holes over a two-week period.

But despite all that, Jack Nicklaus, golf's leading money winner, and superstars Tom Weiskopf and Lee Trevino won't show up.

Nicklaus and Weiskopf are going hunting. Trevino says he isn't coming became he can't stay anywhere two weeks in a row so "how am I gonna spend two weeks in Pinehurst in the winter?"

With one-fifth of the purse going to the winner, veteran Arnold Palmer, who will be competing, says "It seems that there's $100,000 just sitting there that nobody wants."

That's not quite the case, though.

The field includes the year's No. 2 money winner, Australian Bruce Crampton, South African Gary Player, U.S. Open champion Johnny Miller, Masters champ Tommy Aaron, Billy Casper, tour sophomore sensation Lanny Wadkins, Chi Chi Rodriguez, Sam Snead and rookie Ben Crenshaw, who officially started his career on the tour last week by winning at San Antonio.

There are also open champions of 27 foreign countries, including England's Peter Oosterhus.

All of which is enough to give Clyde Mangum, PGA tournament coordinator some justification in saying it's "the strongest field that has ever been assembled in the history of golf."

Still, the absence of Trevino, Nicklaus and Weiskopf has not left officials happy. Perhaps partially because of their absence, the tourney hasn't attracted enough interest to get television coverage even on a regional basis.

"It doesn't hurt me that they aren't coming," said Bill Maurer, president of Diamondhead Corp., which owns the massive Pinehurst resort complex and sponsors the fledgling tournament.

"But I feel successful people have obligations to their profession," he said. "They've taken a lot out of golf and they should be willing to put some back in."

Qualifying for the tournament continues through today and there will be a pro-am tomorrow. The first round of the tournament, with the entries trimmed to a field of 240, will begin Thursday.

Two Girls' Gymnastics Meets Set

Two compulsory gymnastics meets for junior high and middle school girls in Marin will be held tomorrow and Thursday, with the top finishers scheduled to go on to a subsequent sectional meet.

Gymnasts from Vallecito and Miller Creek junior highs and Santa Venetia Middle School will compete tomorrow at 3 p.m. at Miller Creek, while athletes from Kent Junior High and Davidson and Mill Valley middle schools will participate Thursday at 5 p.m. at Tamalpais High.

There will be five levels of competition — novice, beginner, beginner open and intermediate. Gymnasts will compete in five categories — uneven parallel bars, vaulting, balance beam, floor exercise and overall.

Top five girls in each event and the top 50 per cent of the all-around gymnasts will advance to the sectional meet Nov. 14 at 3 p.m. at Miller Creek. The top five in each event and top half in all-around at that meet will advance to the Bay Counties meet Dec. 8 at Acalanes High in Walnut Creek.

San Diego QB Freitas Tabbed

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —San Diego State quarterback Jesse Freitas yesterday was voted the Pacific Coast Athletic Association's offensive player of the week for the second straight week.

He completed 29 of 46 passes for 427 yards and three touchdowns in a 27-27 tie by the Aztecs at San Jose State Saturday night.

SVARE OUT, WALLER IN Changing Of Chargers' Guard

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —It is two years after Sid Gillman was fired as coach of the San Diego Chargers in favor of mild-mannered, non-controversial Harland Svare. Today, Svare stepped down in favor of relatively unknown special teams coach Ron Waller.

Owner Gene Klein emphasized a new coach would be hired for 1974.

Weeks of boos, chants and "Sack Svare" signs were not the reason he resigned, Svare told a news conference yesterday. It was the won-lost record (1-6- 1). The once-explosive Chargers had also fallen to last in scoring in the American Football Conference and appeared headed for their worst season in history.

"The personnel is immeasurably better than it was two years ago," Svare said. "One win and a tie aren't enough. I'm a pro and I know that's not enough."

With three and a half years remaining on a five-year contract, Svare remains as club general manager, a post he held before replacing Gillman.

"We have good draft choices coming up," he smiled. "We get two first rounders in each of the next two years, and it took hard work to get them."

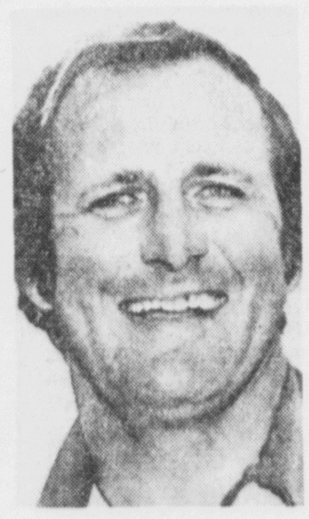

As Svare said he won't seek another head coaching job in the future, he was replaced at the podium by the still-ambitious Waller, who has known the taste of success, although on the minor league level.

Waller coached championship clubs his last three years in the old Atlantic Coast League with Pottstown, Pa., and Norfolk, Va.

"That had a great deal to do with choosing him," Klein said.

HARLAND SVARE

RON WALLER
Winning Record

"I have my own ideas," Waller said, "but they will be hard to implement into the system this late in the season.

"We have the material to win and we're going to try our best."

Svare and Klein conferred for about four hours Sunday night after the Chargers had been pasted 19-0 by the previously punchless Kansas City Chiefs.

Waller was informed of the decision when he arrived at work early yesterday.

"To say the least, I was very surprised," he said.

Noting he needs 24 hours to formulate things in his mind, Waller nevertheless made one thing clear. He would take over the offense and defensive backfield coach Willie Wood would become defensive coordinator.

Waller admitted he took the job strictly as an interim coach with no promises for the future, but added "I have enough confidence in my own background in football that if I'm not here next year I'll be somewhere else."

Exercise Class At Corte Madera

Cost is $9.50 and registration is conducted at the Corte Madera Town Hall.

Renewed Optimism Of Padres' Staying

SAN DIEGO (UPI) —The 30-day limit given by National League owners for C. Arnholt Smith to sell the San Diego Padres ended yesterday with still no decision but with optimism the team will remain in San Diego.

Mayor Pete Wilson said he called National League President Chub Feeney and was told there would be no meeting of club owners until Smith notified him San Diego was seeking to transfer ownership.

Wilson said he had hoped to have an announcement but could only say "I feel a deal should be reached and it will be."

His optimism was based in part on the fact that when other prospective buyers try to contact Smith they are always referred to Los Angeles attorney Neil Papiano. Wilson left the impression a deal with Smith already had been agreed to and the city was the only stumbling block.

Smith representatives have not even attended the negotiations, he said.

Papiano represents Marjorie Everett, who is the major figure in the group negotiating for the Padres' purchase.

A week ago, Wilson said negotiations had been called off because the city could not meet Mrs. Everett's demands for the stadium lease. Two days later he said they were back on again as both sides had made concessions.

"I feel we have made an extremely reasonable offer," Wilson said Monday. "It protects the city, looks after the taxpayers and would keep the team in San Diego."

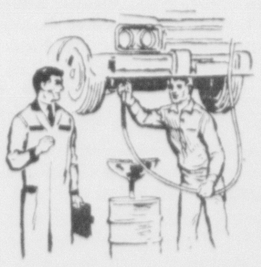

He would not reveal terms because of other prospective buyers but said when negotiations are either concluded or hopeless he will be happy to make them public.

FISH AND GAME

By AL GIDDINGS

Crowd Of Anglers, But Still No Fish

This week, so far, has been like the gathering of the clan. Marin Countians Marty Medin, Pete Valconesi and Steve Truttman came home from the Smith River where they put in two weeks fly fishing for salmon. The fishing was generally miserable; Marty didn't get a fish!

It's almost funny, too. For years the fly fishermen have kept the fishery there pretty much a secret, then this year, four national magazines carried articles about the big fish of the Smith River. Naturally, the place was mobbed this year, with no one really connecting. It rained and the river was too high most of the time. Of course, those three scouted out some other areas, and finally connected with some good fish in some of the Oregon rivers.

Steve's 44-pounder naturally made the trip for him. Marty got three, all big fish to 30 pounds, so he felt satisfied. Just one of those big fish on a fly is a never to be forgotten experience.

BOB WILSON and Bob Taverna of Woodacre also came by. They spent the last week of deer season at Modoc County. Taverna, at one point came around a brush patch and saw a monster buck, but he had his gun slung so couldn't get off a shot. The boys needled him so much about this that he started, so he says, carrying his gun at the ready, but no other bucks did he see.

And Enos Foster: the last time I saw him he was hiking the highest peaks at Lassen County. I finally got a report from him that things were just too tough this year.

LOUIE ROBINETTE of Novato reported hunting Deadwood Ridge near Auburn with five other friends. Lots of brush in that country. One of the hunters, 16 year old Donny Keny of Novato, came through with a nice buck that he managed to outwit at a distance of just 30 feet. Lou also says that Harold Greenwald, the former owner of Jim's Sport Shop in Novato, is moving to Colorado Springs. He'll be missed by a lot of his friends around here.

Locally, the duck hunting has been very slow. I did see Enos Foster last Saturday putting in the day on Tomales Bay skulling. He ended up with four widgeon and two sprig.

THE RAINS YESTERDAY and today will rapidly change the local picture. Lots of sturgeon have been reported jumping in San Pablo Bay this week. If the rains move those bait stealing crabs out of the bay, sturgeon fishing should be tops. Incidentally, the market crab season opens next Tuesday, but the crabs in San Pablo never make the required size to be legal.

With the 40,000 yearling silver salmon plants in Papermill Creek the last two years, this season should really begin with the rains. The White House Pool area on the south side of Papermill Creek at Pt. Reyes Station has been purchased for fishermen by the Wildlife Conservation Board this past year. There's plenty of room to park and plenty of room to fish.

MOST OF the salmon will be taken on lures such as spinners, flatfish and other popular salmon catching gadgets. Spinning and casting rods with from 10 to 15 pound test monofilament work the best. If you are a fly fisherman, you can do that too. Work the lures and the flies (streamer) slowly and along the bottom for best results. If fish are in the area, you will see them rolling and jumping, generally at the tide changes.

On ducks, things have been tough statewide. There have been very few ducks in Marin County. The Ducks Unlimited releases say that most of the birds are still north where good weather has prevailed to keep the birds there. This storm will probably be just the ticket needed to start the migration this way.

Maravich Leads NBA In Scoring

NEW YORK (UPI) —Pistol Pete Maravich has finally shot himself to the top of the National Basketball Association scoring column.

Maravich, hitting at a 29.6 point a game clip and averaging 3.5 more than his 1972-73 pace, replaced Gail Goodrich of Los Angeles as scoring leader today with a total of 385 points. Goodrich dropped to second place on a 28.5 average.

The familiar faces of past seasons are no longer represented in the key categories. Terry Driscoll of Milwaukee, cast off by several NBA teams, leads in field goal percentages with a .631 mark and Connie Hawkins, recently traded by Phoenix to Los Angeles, heads the foul shooters with a perfect 15 for 15.

Elvin Hayes of Capital is the rebound leader with a 17.1 average and Ernie DiGregorio of Buffalo is tied with John Havlicek of Boston in assists at a 7.9 a game.

In two new categories this season, Elmore Smith, the Lakers' 7-1 center, is the blocked shot leader with 102 and an 8.50 average, while Jerry Sloan of Chicago and Larry Steele of Portland head the circuit in steals with a 3.0 average.

THIS DAY IN SPORTS

'Van' Relaxes As Falcons Soar

By DAVID MOFFITT

ATLANTA (UPI) —Norm Van Brocklin is more relaxed now than he was a month ago.

Then, the coach of the Atlanta Falcons was under fire from almost every direction. His team had lost three straight after opening the season with a 62-7 win over the New Orleans Saints, and there were cries for his scalp.

That was last month. Now, Norm Van Brocklin and his Falcons are the toast of Atlanta. They've won four straight, the latest a 15-13 victory over the Los Angeles Rams, and what a difference it makes.

Tommy Nobis, who has been linebacking for the Falcons all eight years of their existence, pretty well summed it up after the Rams' game:

"It's a great feeling," Nobis said with a wide smile. "Things are sure a lot different than they were five weeks ago — both on the field and off the field. Now, we can go out into the street without having to take a lot of guff."

The Falcons had been considered a contender in the National Football Conference Western Division coming into this season and the lop-sided win at New Orleans heightened that belief.

That's why a lot of people were shocked by back-to-back shellackings at the hands of the Rams (31-0) and the Detroit Lions (31-6) and "Dump Dutch" signs were unfurled at Atlanta Stadium during a 13-9 loss to San Francisco.

By then, Van Brocklin was fighting back the only way he knew how. He changed quarterbacks, unloaded several fringe players and refused to alibi.

When the local press appeared to be leading a movement to have him fired, Van Brocklin retaliated by closing practices and limiting his news conferences.

"Fundamentally we're sound, we're just not cashing in on our opportunities," said Van Brocklin at that time. "We're able to make the big plays, we're just not making them. But we will."

Dick Shiner started at quarterback for the Falcons the first four games, then pulled a shoulder muscle midway through the game with the Forty-Niners.

Van Brocklin switched to Bob Lee, whom he had picked up in the off-season from Minnesota in a trade that sent Bob Berry, last year's regular Falcon quarterback, to the Vikings.

Lee seemed to perk up the Falcon offense in the second half of that loss to San Francisco and when he directed Atlanta to a 46-6 victory over the Chicago Bears the following Sunday, Shiner got his walking papers (to New England).

"Bob Lee's play has given us a lift," Van Brocklin said after Lee led the Falcons to a 41-0 win over San Diego and then a 17-3 win over the Forty-Niners at San Francisco.

"The whole team feels now that we're going to make the plays instead of missing," Van Brocklin continued. "He's inspired everybody, the whole football operation."

This is Norm Van Brocklin's 12th year as a head coach in the National Football League, the first six were with the Vikings, but only the second time that one of his teams have won five of their first eight games. The other time was in 1965, when Minnesota got off to a 5-3 start but wound up 7-7.

His best season-long record was in 1964 when the Vikings were 8-5-1 and the "Dutchman" has reason to hope for better than that this year.

The Falcons should be favored in five of their last six games against Philadelphia, the New York Jets, Buffalo, St. Louis and New Orleans. They should be the underdogs only for their Nov. 19, Monday night, game here against the unbeaten Vikings.

They are still a game behind the Rams in the NFC West but people are beginning to talk about their chances of being the NFC "wild-card" team in the playoffs.

"It's too early to talk about that," said Van Brocklin. "That will have worked itself out when the season is complete. I know this isn't the answer you want, but we're going to continue to worry only about our next game each week. Right now, we're concerned only about Sunday's game at Philadelphia."

Van Brocklin feels the Falcons should have beaten the Forty-Niners the first time they met. "We were only one play away from winning that game," he said.

Butt he refuses to fret about that. "There's nothing to be gained by looking back. That game is history. We must look ahead."

He feels the Falcons, who have given up a total of only two touchdowns their last five games, now have one of the best defenses in the NFL and he finds himself looking forward eagerly to their next game.

And how does Norm Van Brocklin feel about the Falcons' first-ever four game winning streak and the changed attitude of the Atlanta fans?

"I feel good."

Braves Hire Hurler Aide Starrette

ATLANTA (UPI) —The Atlanta Braves announced today they had hired Herm Starrette, Baltimore Orioles minor league pitching instructor for the past six years, as their major league pitching coach.

The 34-year-old Starrette replaces Lew Burdette, whose contract was not renewed at the conclusion of last season.

Starrette pitched nine years in the Orioles organization, compiling a 1-1 major league record with a 2.54 earned run average in 27 games as a reliever. A sore pitching arm forced him to give up his active career.

Eddie Robinson, Braves' vice president for baseball operations, said he "always admired" the way Starrette worked as an active pitcher.

"He may have lacked in raw ability, but those that do learn more, have to use their ingenuity and are better able to teach," Robinson said.

Issel Wins ABA Battles With Erving

NEW YORK (UPI)—Kentucky's Dan Issel and New York's Julius Erving, two of the American Basketball Association's best forwards, battled head to head twice last week and Issel won both duels to take over the league scoring lead for the first time this season.

Issel's performances, which also helped the Colonels defeat the Nets twice and improve their Eastern Division-leading record to 10-1, gave him a 28.7 average for the season.

Erving, who led all scorers the first three weeks of the year, dropped to 28.4 points per game. Virginia's George Gervin is third at 23.6, followed by Utah's Willie Wise (23.1) and San Diego's rookie Dwight Lamar (23).

Issel's seven-foot teammate Artis Gilmore remained the dominant rebounder in the ABA with a 19.1 average. Indiana's Mel Daniels is second at 13.4.

PREP OF THE WEEK

Redwood Ace Top Scorer In Loop Water Polo Race

By LEW CODDINGTON

Tom Schindler is an ace in the "hole." And on the perimeter. And in mid-pool. And just about anywhere else Redwood High School cares to put him.

He is the highest-scoring water polo player in the Marin County Athletic League this year, and Friday, if he scores two or more goals in the season-ending game against Terra Linda, he will become the highest scorer in MCAL history.

Last Friday, Schindler scored a single-game record 26 goals in the Giants' 33-25 victory over Drake, bringing his season total to 97, one shy of the mark set by San Rafael's Mike Kamler last year. In an effort to get Schindler the record without running up the score on winless Drake, Redwood coach Dennis Untermann swam mostly junior varsity and freshman players, and a close game resulted.

Schindler's performance earned him Independent-Journal Prep of the Week honors, and earned for undefeated Redwood (11-0) at least a co-championship in the MCAL. It's the first time in the six-year history of the sport than any name except "Terra Linda" has appeared on the pennant.

"Tom's finest assets are his speed and reactions," says coach Dennis Untermann, a fugitive from the wrestling ranks (he guided Tamalpais to the MCAL co-championship last winter). "He understands the game, has split second timing and a very strong (right) arm."

It's good that the 17-year-old senior has those virtues, since at 5-foot-9 and 145 pounds, he would be a size disadvantage if his opponents weren't 90 per cent submerged in water.

Redwood exploits Schindler's abilities by playing him in the "hole" directly in front of the opposing net about a third of the time. Otherwise, the Giants will run patterns like a basketball team, and the open man (usually Schindler) gets the shot.

Tom has been interested in swimming since boyhood, and has swum for the Tiburon Peninsula Club team in the Marin Swim League since age 11. His brother Dave, a 1969 Redwood graduate, got him interested in water polo. Tom made the varsity as a sophomore, and last year scored 52 goals and made all-league.

Tom also took up diving, and with the graduation last spring of Terra Linda's Dave Cotton, Tom is expected to be the MCAL's top diver next spring, with competition from Drake's Bob Navioux and Redwood's Scott Ballinger and Rob Setrakian. Tom was sixth as a sophomore and eighth as a junior in the North Coast Section Class B meet.

He also wrestles. He made the varisty as a 133-pounder last season, but pulled knee ligaments limited his post-season competition.

Tom carries a 3.25 grade average and plans to attend college, hopefully on a water polo scholarship. His plans for a major are uncertain, but eventually he hopes to go to law school.

TOM SCHINDLER

He has "speed and reactions . . . he understands the game, has split-second timing and a very strong arm." What more could you ask?

Laver Puts Tennis Foe To Sleep

SYDNEY (UPI) —No. 3 seed Rod Laver, playing on just one hour's sleep, and Americans Mike Estep and Jim McManus, all won their first round matches today in the inaugural $50,000 Australian Indoor tennis tournament.

Laver, who arrived from Hong Kong just 10 hours before his match, easily defeated American Ken McMillan, 6-2, 6-2.

Estep, from Dallas, Tex., upset No. 5 Mal Anderson of Australia, 6-3, 6-1, while McManus, from Berkeley, Calif., knocked off Aussie Colin Dibley, No. 7, 6-4, 7-6. American Paul Gerkin also advanced by defeating Marty Mulligan, 6-4, 6-1.

In other upsets West German Jurgen Fassbender made short work of Indian Vijay Armritraj, the No. 4 seed, 6-1, 6-4, and Australian Jeff Masters eliminated eighth seed Brian Godfrey, of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., 7-6, 6-3.

Armritraj was hampered by a torn shoulder muscle and did not show the form that has won him many important matches this year.

Meeting Is Sought In Soccer Boycott

Combined AP & UPI

MOSCOW — A Hungarian official of the International Football Federation (FIFA) called today for an emergency meeting to discuss the Soviet Union's refusal to play Chile in a World Cup qualification match in Santiago. Sandor Barcs of Hungary, a member of the FIFA Executive Committee, made the proposal in an interview with the newspaper Sovietsky Sport.

He said Russia's refusal to play in the Chilean National Stadium, which has been used by the military junta there as a temporary prison camp, was understandable.

Sovietsky Sport said another member of the executive committee, Helmut Riedel of East Germany, has demanded the match be played in a neutral country.

Piersall Hired By Rangers

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Rangers owner Bob Short today hired former major league outfielder Jimmy Piersall as the club's promotions and group sales department.

The Rangers, in their first two years in Texas, have been a disappointment to Short at the gate as well as on the field.

Having hired Billy Martin in the 1973 season's final weeks to do something about the won-loss record, Short said he hired Piersall in an attempt to bring more people to the ball park.

"He brings experience, enthusiasm, energy and wit to his position," said Short. "He is an excellent salesman who has fresh promotional ideas and is a superb speaker who will be available to interested groups."

Piersall, 43, played with five major league clubs in a 17-year career.

Piersall suffered a mental breakdown in 1952 and following his recovery he wrote a book on his experience, "Fear Strikes Out" which was later made into a movie.

Prisoner Earns Scholarship

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—Federal Judge Ralph F. Scalera yesterday suspended the remainder of a 15-year prison sentence against Cornell R. Johnston, 23, so he could accept a football scholarship to Kentucky State University.

The judge took the unusual action after hearing from prison authorities.

They said Johnston, a 6-6, 260-pounder from Pittsburgh, should be rewarded for saving the life of a guard at the Allegheny County Jail last April 22.

Johnston, who was sentenced on bank robbery charges last April 12, jumped another inmate who was holding a broken piece of glass at the throat of the guard. Johnston forced the inmate to release the guard and held him for other guards.

Warden William B. Robinson praised Johnston.

"In my personal opinion, I really feel after talking to the prisoner and knowing him previously, I really believe that he would have killed the officer, had something not been done immediately," Robinson said.

Johnston's attorney, Anthony J. Lalama, and Ron Hill of the Allegheny County Bail Bond Agency contacted Kentucky State and the school agreed to give Johnston a scholarship beginning in January.

Revision Doubles Portfolio Income

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. The enclosed list of stocks represents my retirement portfolio. I think I should be able to get a better return. What do you think? — C.K.

A. I agree; your $66,000 portfolio returns $2,070 or 3 per cent, a rate that could be increased significantly. You hold odd lots of Criterion Insurance (OTC), Government Employees Financial (OTC), Government Employees Life (OTC), Marriott (NYSE) and Midwestern United Life (OTC). Since the yields on these five issues are not particularly generous, I would advise sale. Furthermore, this will reduce your somewhat unwieldy list of 15 holdings. Government Employees Insurance (OTC) which represents 35 per cent of your total portfolio should also be sold, in view of its low 2 per cent yield. If you require the maximum possible return on your principal, you might also sell Capital Holdings (NYSE), otherwise this issue should be held for capital appreciation.

Assuming all seven stocks are sold, you would release $43,000 for reinvestment. Four NYSE-listed bonds are suggested: 10M Allied Chema 7⅞s of 1996, 10M Florida Power & Light 8⅛s of 1980, 10M Halliburton Co. 7.95s of 1995 and 12M Transamerica Financial 7⅞s of 1991. All four are rated A, have adequately covered interest rates and trade at or close to par. In addition, your income payments will be spread out over eight separate months, skipping only Jan., April, July and Oct. This revised portfolio will yield $4,825 or 7.3 per cent on your principal. Should you elect to hold your shares of Capital Holdings, the 12M Transamerica Financial could be omitted from the list. In that case, annual income would total $4,089, for a 6.2 per cent return.

Q. Is the bond described in the attached advertisement a safe investment? — R.C.

A. Absolutely, Tennessee Valley Authority, a federal agency, was established by Congress in 1933. Bonds issued by the TVA are rated AAA and regarded as being second only to U.S. Treasury debt securities as for safety. Interest paid on TVA bonds is subject to federal but not state or local income tax.

Companies Like Trim Executives

The heavily overweight executive may find the corporate ladder a little steep to climb these days, a leading specialist in finding executives for top positions says.

Frank Hanrahan, partner in the national executive search firm of Hergenrather and Co. of Los Angeles, reported that companies across the country are becoming increasingly concerned with the health of their executives — particularly at middle and top management levels.

"Persistent personal patterns of excessive overweight or excessive thinness, of addictive smoking or drinking, or of the absence of any kind of consistently pursued outside physical activity, such as jogging or swimming, can be a marked detriment to an executive career these days," Hanrahan added.

He said companies looking for key executives "tend increasingly to be attracted to executives who are somewhat athletic — or at least those who pursue a program of some kind of regular exercise or physical relaxation."

The Hergenrather official said some company presidents looking for top management personnel "actually specify their preference for candidates, who — along with their other qualifications — actively engage in some recreational sport."

Bargain Hunters Help Stocks Score Comeback

NEW YORK (UPI) —Stocks staged a moderate rebound today on the New York Stock Exchange following one of the worst six-day declines in exchange history. Trading was fairly active.

Analysts views today's early buying as bargain hunting following more than a week of enormous losses. They noted there was little in the news to account for the buying, adding that stocks hit hardest in the recent selloff were leading the gainers, particularly the chemicals, motors, computers and semiconductors.

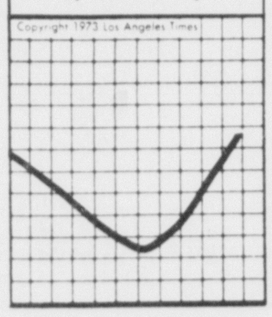

On the Big Board, oils with holdings primarily outside the troubled Middle East continued to rise. Getty gained 3, Kerr-McGeeand Phillips Petroleum a point each.

Chemicals, heavy losers recently amid talk of oil and petroleum shortages, rebounded a bit. Dupont added 2, Dow 1 ⅜, Eastman Kodak 1 ⅝.

IBM and Honeywell tacked on 2 ½ each, Burroughs 2 ¼, and National Semiconductor 1 ⅛.

STUDENT AND HIS SHIP

Mike Murphy, a student at Southern Illinois University, started building a model of a Bellanca monoplane when he was 15 years old. Now 18, Murphy used the plane to compete in the National Intercollegiate Flying Association Region 8 meet near St. Louis over the weekend. The plane cruises at 45 miles an hour.

Astronauts End Ground Testing

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Astronauts Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue completed the last ground rehearsals yesterday for their record 60-day stay aboard the Skylab space station, waiting 270 miles up in Earth orbit for their arrival.

If the trio of rookie space pilots have a successful mission going for them after eight weeks, they'll likely get approval to continue with their scientific research flight for up to 85 days.

A 224-foot tall Saturn 1B rocket, with a crew ferry spaceship perched atop it, was poised on the launchpad to thrust the astronauts up to the eight-room station at 11:41 a.m. EST Saturday. The countdown was in a hold until Thursday morning.

Doctors will keep a close watch over Carr, Gibson and Pogue the rest of the week, but today's physical examination was their last major hurdle to being declared fit to make the trip.

They have been kept in isolation at the Johnson Space Center in Houston for the past 2-½ weeks to protect them from common earth illnesses. After procedural briefings, they planned to fly their personal T38 jets to the Florida spaceport tomorrow afternoon.

Thursday and Friday were to be taken up with further, quick medical checkups and still more last minute briefings on the hundreds of scientific research chores assigned to them during the flight.

The first all-rookie space flight crew since the Gemini program in 1966, the Skylab 3 astronauts have been given an extra research job for the flight in addition to study of the sun, the earth and themselves— observation of comet Kohoutek.

Kohoutek is expected to be the brightest comet of the century, and will be studied as it swings around the sun from deep space in December, using a variety of spacecraft and from the ground. Just like studying the sun, using Skylab to look at the comet has the advantages of placing telescopes and cameras above the interference of Earth's atmosphere, and having men to point the instruments precisely.

Court Orders Film Changes

LOS ANGELES (UPI) —A Superior Court judge yesterday ordered major changes before Thanksgiving in the movie "Jonathan Livingston Seagull."

Richard Bach, author of the best-selling novel and screenplay, and Neil Diamond, who composed and recorded the musical score for the film, filed suit seeking the changes. Bach charged his screenplay was altered and Diamond charged the amount of his music that was to be used in the film was reduced.

Hall Bartlett, the producer of the film, and Paramount Pictures Corp., its distributor, were ordered to omit wording that Bach found objectionable, to remove the author's name from the credits, and restore Diamond's original music score by Nov. 20.

Crew Of Sunken Tanker In Port

SANTA CRUZ DE TENERIFE, Spain (UPI) —A Spanish passenger ship arrived today with 43 crew members of the supertanker Golar Patricia which sank yesterday 200 miles north of the Canary Islands.

A Spanish navy spokesman said the Liberian-registered 216,000-ton tanker, en route from Britain to Bahrein to pick up oil, sank following an explosion.

He said one Spanish crew member was killed and the remaining 43 persons on board rescued, three of them slightly injured.

Bus Crash Cause Still Not Known

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —Conflicting and unexplained accounts from witnesses left investigators mystified today about the cause of the high speed freeway bus crash that killed the driver and 12 weekend gamblers.

One bus survivor, apparently the only one to see the actions of the driver, told investigators yesterday the man behind the wheel was drinking a soda, clutched his chest and tried to stand up just an instant before the double-deck bus hurled into a massive concrete pillar.

The account came from Arthur Davis, 45, who was seated directly behind driver Douglas Moore, 26, last Saturday on the Reno-bound Greyhound "gamblers special" from Richmond in the Bay Area, the home of all 43 passengers.

Davis was among the 31 survivors, all of whom were injured, nine seriously. From a hospital bed he told authorities he handed a glass of soda to Moore, of Hayward, before the collision.

But the coroner's office said an autopsy on Moore's body showed "there was absolutely nothing wrong with his heart. He was in perfect health."

It also found no trace of alcohol or drugs in the driver's blood.

A coroner's spokesman said further tests were planned but added "it's really doubtful" they will turn up any evidence of the driver suffering from a physical malady.

Most Speed Tickets Go To Race Drivers

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Racing car drivers have more accidents and get more speeding tickets than ordinary motorists, the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety said today.

The non-profit research group said it compared the driving records of 447 race drivers in Florida, New York and Texas with 1,053 motorists in the same states.

The average number of speeding violations per race car driver in Florida was 1.28 compared with 0.44 for average motorists. In New York the ratio was 1.06 for race car drivers compared with 0.35 for the average motorist. In Texas the ratio was 1.63 to 0.88.

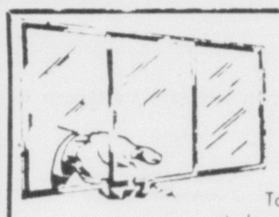

The accident statistics showed much the same thing. In Florida, race car drivers were involved in 0.28 accidents per driver compared with 0.14 for average motorists. In Texas the ratios were 0.58 compared with 0.49; in New York, 0.64 compared with 0.49.

The results "suggest a need for caution regarding the assumption that advanced driver education and related techniques can be translated into reduced crash experience," the report said.

But it said its statistics did not take into account the claim that race drivers drive more miles than the average motorist.

The report noted that racing drivers hold "national competition" licenses, which they earn partly on the basis of advanced training in driving technique and crash avoidance.

Looking at all kinds of traffic violations, the report said racing car drivers in New York were involved in 0.49 violations per driver, compared with 0.38 per driver for average motorists. This ratio in Texas was 0.46 to 0.43; in Florida, 0.65 to 0.50.
